Legislators to consider new jail standards

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) —Missouri lawmakers return to work today to consider legislation increasing allowable truck lengths and weights and setting minimum jail standards.

The Senate, which wound up February by giving final approval to a sweeping death penalty bill that differs substantially from one passed by the House, will also consider proposed constitutional amendments easing the restrictions for increasing tax levies.

Final consideration of an overhaul in the state school aid distribution formula and an $8-across-the-board boost in Aid to Dependent Children payments faces the House.

Hikes in allowable weights and lengths for trucks pending in the upper chamber has been sought as a means of increasing transportation of goods while saving fuel by needing fewer vehicles.

But opponents of the bill, which boosts maximum length from 55 to 60 feet and maximum wieght from 73,280 to 80,000 pounds, claim bigger and heavier trucks will damage state roads. Chief Highway Department Engineer Robert Hunter has estimated the increases could cause an additional $26 million expense for highway construction and maintenance.

Creation of minimum jail standards, sponsored by Rep. James Baker, D-Kansas City, calls for the state Division of Corrections to set minimum requirements for local jails in the areas of health and sanitary conditions, fire and life safety, security, rehabilitation, recrea-

5 persons hurt in area accidents

Five persons were injured in two area accidents Saturday, according to the highway patrol.

A one-car accident at 8:30 p.m. one mile east of Roselle on Highway in Madison County injured Dorothy Jean Wilkins, 23, and her six-month-old son, Daniel William Wilkins, of Frederickton.

Mrs. Willkins lost of controll of her eastbound car which ran off the road and struck a utility pole.

Both victims were taken to St. Mary's Hospital in Ironton for treatment of minor injuries.

Three miles west of Malden on Route J at 8 p.m., a two-car accident injured a Clarkton boy and two Malden women.

Claudette D. Everett, 18, both of Malden, received minor injuries when Mrs. Everett stopped to make a left turn and her car was struck from behind by another westbound car driven by Charles K. Provance, Jr., 16, of Clarkton.

The woamn w The women were treated and released at Croom-Morehead Clinic in Malden. Provance also received minor injuries but did not seek treatment.

Father held in shooting

NEW MADRID--A father, who shot his son in the buttocks during a family quarrel Saturday night is in New Madrid County jail, and the victim is in Missouri Delta Community Hospital at Sikeston, according to a sheriff's deputy.

A felonious assault charge was scheduled to be filed today against Bennie Shoffner, who fired a 12-gauge shotgun at his son, Willie Shoffner, about 8 p.m. Saturday at the family home two miles north of town.

The younger Shoffner required surgery for removal of pellets, and was reported in satisfactory condition today.

2 Oran men receive awards for civic work

ORAN--Robert Dohogne was named Man of the Year and Paul Halter Jr. was presented the past achievements award Saturday night during the Chamber of Commerce Man of the Year Banquet at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Mayor Kenneth Ransdell, who made the presentation, said Dohogne was "deserving of the Man of the Year title."

Ransdell said Dohogne has been active in civic and church organizations, has been a member of the City Council and chairman of the council's water and sewer committee, worked on committees for the housing project and is presently vice president of the Oran Rental Housing Inc. board of directors.

Dohogne joined the Lions Club 1971, served on several committees and was elected president in 1974. He was elected president of the Chamber of Commerce in 1972 and 1973 and is presently serving a three-year term as a chamber trustee and as chairman of the industry and commerce committee.

"He did an outstanding job while president of the chamber." Ransdell said. "One of his most deserving achievements as president was that of being the principal party in starting Oran's Fall Festival, which has been a success and a credit to him."

He is also a member of Guardian Angel Catholic Church, president of the school board and member of the parish council and St. Joseph Men's Club and is active in the Knights of Columbus organization, which he has served as treasurer for two years.

Chamber of Commerce president Junior Wilson said of Halter, "For many years this man has been an asset to his community by being active in numerous civic and church organizatons."

He said Halter has served on the City Council and the volunteer fire department. Halter is a former member and present booster of Oran's softball club and a former member of the Elks Lodge and Chamber of Commerce.

"One of his outstanding accomplishments for Oran was helping to form the Little League," Wilson said. "He was a key figure in its organization by backing it financially, as well as with labor by keeping up the grounds, helping organize the teams and any other task called for. He managed the team for 10 years."

Halter is also a member of the Guardian Angel parish, has served on the parish council and is

Cline to be honored

Four leading Democrats are expected to attend an appreciation dinner for State Rep. C.F. Cline of Sikeston at 7 p.m. March 22 in the Ramada Inn, according to dinner chairman Glen Bond.

Expected to attend are Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick, State Tresasurer James I. Spainhower, Speaker of the Missouri House of Representatives Richard J. Rabbitt and 10th District U.S. Rep. Bill Burlison of Cape Girardeau.

The dinner is being promoted and sponsored by friends of Cline to recognize his work in the House and his efforts to help the people of Southeast Missouri.

"Cline has been an innovative thinker in the Missouri House." Bond said. "Already a measure which he has strongly supported, restoration of the death penalty, has been passed by the House. In only one term he rose to become vice chairman of the powerful House Education Committee and is now serving on the Transportation Committee and the Agriculture Committee."

Co-chairman for the dinner are Miss Addie Mae Jones of Sikeston and Albert Elfrank of Advance.

Tickets may be obtained from any committee member or at the door. About 150 people are expected to attend.

Ford responds to Demos today

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford conferred with Republican congressional leaders on energy and the economy today, and one GOP spokesman said afterward it is certainly possible that Ford will defer the second and third dollars of his oil import tariff.

Ford scheduled a 4 p.m. EDT announcement on his response to a Democratic proposal that he defer the higher tariffs while compromise talks are underway to shape an energy program.

White House spokesmen insisted after the Republican leadership meeting that Ford had not reached a decision. But Senate GOP leader Hugh Scott said concerning the tariff deferral: "It is certainly possible, given a spirit of compromise, that something may happen there.

Meanwhile, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon and federal energy administrator Frank G. Zarb told the House Ways and Means Committee that Ford's energy proposals were preferable to a plan made public by committee Democrats over the weekend.

Simon said Ford's proposed $3-a-barrel tax on imported crude oil would translate into a gasoline price increase of about 10 cents a gallon. Simon added: "Most people will get it all back.

Under Ford's plan, the increase in the price of oil cause by the higher tariffs would be offset by personal and business tax decreases.

Simon said a 45-cent-a-gallon increase in gasoline price would push the Consumer Price Index up by about 3 per cent. He contrasted that to an increase of 2 per cent estimated to be the effect of Ford's proposal.

The plan made public by Chairman Al Ullman and other Democrats on the Ways and Means Committee over the

Burglars hit office of CPA

Burglars broke into the office of James H.Bucher, CPA, and the Bee Hive over the weekend and stole a television set at Pine Motel and the hood from an automobile at Goza-Harper Motor Co.

Thieves broke into the office of James Bucher, CPA, an accounting firm at 219 East Malone Ave., sometime Sunday or early today, according to police.

Taken were a stereo eight-track tape player worth $102, an FM stereo radio with speakers worth $133 and $3 in change and some old coins from a vault.

Police said the burglars apparently entered the building through the back door.

Burglars broke into the Bee Hive, a cafe at 839 W. Malone Ave., and took $20 from a juke box and an undetermined amount of change from a cigarette machine. About two cartons of cigarettes were also taken, police said.

The theft occurred between 5:30 and 8:15 p.m. Friday. The building was entered through the northwest door.

An 18-inch black and white television set worth $75 was taken from a room at Pine Motel, South Main Street, between 9 a.m. Friday and 6:30 p.m. Saturday.

Police said the room had been rented to a woman.

A hood worth $200 was taken from an automobile parked in the new car lot at Goza-Harper Motor Co., 225 E. Malone Ave. The theft occurred between 8 a.m. Saturday and 5 p.m. Sunday.

Shots fired into home

DUDLEY — Two gunshots were fired into the home of Tony Hastings Saturday night, according to the Stoddard County sheriff's department.

Hastings had been arrested earlier in the day for assaulting two Fisk women and released on bond. He had returned to his home in Dudley when the shots were fired from a passing automobile.

Campaign cost forms not ready

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.(AP)—As the April 1 elections draw within a month, campaign spending forms and manuals explaining the tough new Campaign Practices Act probably won't be ready for political candidates in Missouri.

Several Missouri Elections Commission members said at their weekend meeting here that the readiness of the forms and manuals looks doubtful.

"From a practical standpoint I don't see how we can get the forms ready by then," said Edmund Bohl, a member of the six-man bipartisan panel that will enforce the act. Missourians approved by a 4-1 margin last November the law that requires candidates to disclose their income sources and campaign spending.

The law went into effect Jan. 1.

But Bohl said that candidates should keep records of their expenditures because they may have to file reports 30 days after the April elections. Or candidates who are exempted from filing spending reports because they spend less than $500 should keep records in case their expenditures are challenged, Bohl said.

The commission has tentatively ruled that all candidates must disclose their sources of income in excess of $500.

Some lawyers and doctors have sought exception to the income disclosure measure, citing their confidentiality. Thomas Anderson, a psychiatrist and mayor of Columbia, has said that he would not disclose the names of his patients.

The commission will make a final ruling on the disclosure rule at their March 15 meeting in St. Louis.

The commission set up a procedure to get public comment on their decisions. They agreed to wait one meeting between the tentative and final approval on rulings they make.

One reason for the holdup in the manuals is a long list of questions about the complex law that the commission hasn't answered yet. Secretary of State James Kirkpatrick, whose office administers the law, has submitted most of the questions.

Commissioner David Blanton urged that the manual be ready by the March 15 meeting.

But Bohl said, "We're kidding ourselves if we think we can come up with a manual in time for the April 1 elections."

Another member, Frank Nutt, agreed saying, "I think being late on the manual is better than being wrong."

Chairman Sam Murphy said, "I don't want some people who are whacking at us to come out April 1 and say that stupid commission hasn't even made any rules yet."

Murphy added that he wanted a set of rules "ordinary people can understand."

The panel also agreed to draw up a short summary that would provide people the basic rules of the law at a glance.

Southwestern Bell announces rate increase

Telephone rates for Southwestern Bell's Missouri customers will change Tuesday to reflect a rate increase authorized by the Missouri Public Service Commission.

The PSC has granted Southwestern Bell a statewide increase of $30.5 million annually. Gross receipts tax revenues as a result of the increased rates will increase $2 million annually. Gross receipts taxes are levied by individual communities, collected by Southwestern Bell and then turned over to local authorities.

Southwestern Bell had requested $52.3 million in its rate filing in July, 1974.

Bell spokesmen said the rate increase was necessary to meet increasing expenses both for normal operations and for capital improvements. The company said that in order to continue to meet the growing demand for new service, increased usage and the quality of service customers demand and deserve, it is imperative that the company earn a sufficient rate of return.

In addition to increased monthly rates, the PSC authorized other changes:

-Calls placed from coin telephones will increase in cost from ten cents to twenty cents, the first time this rate has risen since 1954. Each coin phone in Missouri will need to be modified.

-Installation charges will more closely reflect the cost to the company of providing new services. The installation charge, an on-premises work charge and an adminstrative processing charge. The present resident installation charge is $13. Under this new structure, the average installation charge should be $24.

The monthy telephone rates for Sikeston and Morehouse customers for one phone, not including taxes, mileage, or other charges, are as follows:

Type Svc.	Old Rate	New Rate
Res. 1 Pty.	5.20	5.65
Res. 2 Pty.	4.30	4.70
Res. 4 Pty.	4.65	5.05
Res. 8 Pty.	4.15	4.50
Bus. 1 Pty	11.75	12.80
Bus. 4 Pty.	7.20	7.85
Bus. 8 Pty.	6.75	7.35
Semi-Public Coin	4.70	5.10

There will be no increase on extension and mileage charges.

Campaign cost forms not ready

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.(AP)—As the April 1 elections draw within a month, campaign spending forms and manuals explaining the tough new Campaign Practices Act probably won't be ready for political candidates in Missouri.

Several Missouri Elections Commission members said at their weekend meeting here that the readiness of the forms and manuals looks doubtful.

"From a practical standpoint I don't see how we can get the forms ready by then," said Edmund Bohl, a member of the six-man bipartisan panel that will enforce the act. Missourians approved by a 4-1 margin last November the law that requires candidates to disclose their income sources and campaign spending.

The law went into effect Jan. 1.

But Bohl said that candidates should keep records of their expenditures because they may have to file reports 30 days after the April elections. Or candidates who are exempted from filing spending reports because they spend less than $500 should keep records in case their expenditures are challenged, Bohl said.

The commission has tentatively ruled that all candidates must disclose their sources of income in excess of $500.

Some lawyers and doctors have sought exception to the income disclosure measure, citing their confidentiality. Thomas Anderson, a psychiatrist and mayor of Columbia, has said that he would not disclose the names of his patients.

The commission will make a final ruling on the disclosure rule at their March 15 meeting in St. Louis.

The commission set up a procedure to get public comment on their decisions. They agreed to wait one meeting between the tentative and final approval on rulings they make.

One reason for the holdup in the manuals is a long list of questions about the complex law that the commission hasn't answered yet. Secretary of State James Kirkpatrick, whose office administers the law, has submitted most of the questions.

Commissioner David Blanton urged that the manual be ready by the March 15 meeting.

But Bohl said, "We're kidding ourselves if we think we can come up with a manual in time for the April 1 elections."

Another member, Frank Nutt, agreed saying, "I think being late on the manual is better than being wrong."

Chairman Sam Murphy said, "I don't want some people who are whacking at us to come out April 1 and say that stupid commission hasn't even made any rules yet."

Murphy added that he wanted a set of rules "ordinary people can understand."

The panel also agreed to draw up a short summary that would provide people the basic rules of the law at a glance.

Southwestern Bell announces rate increase

Telephone rates for Southwestern Bell's Missouri customers will change Tuesday to reflect a rate increase authorized by the Missouri Public Service Commission.

The PSC has granted Southwestern Bell a statewide increase of $30.5 million annually. Gross receipts tax revenues as a result of the increased rates will increase $2 million annually. Gross receipts taxes are levied by individual communities, collected by Southwestern Bell and then turned over to local authorities.

Southwestern Bell had requested $52.3 million in its rate filing in July, 1974.

Bell spokesmen said the rate increase was necessary to meet increasing expenses both for normal operations and for capital improvements. The company said that in order to continue to meet the growing demand for new service, increased usage and the quality of service customers demand and deserve, it is imperative that the company earn a sufficient rate of return.

In addition to increased monthly rates, the PSC authorized other changes:

-Calls placed from coin telephones will increase in cost from ten cents to twenty cents, the first time this rate has risen since 1954. Each coin phone in Missouri will need to be modified.

-Installation charges will more closely reflect the cost to the company of providing new services. The installation charge, an extension and mileage charges on-premises work charge and an administrative processing charge. The present resident installation charge is $13. Under this new structure, the average installation charge should be $24.

The monthy telephone rates for Sikeston and Morehouse customers for one phone, not including taxes, mileage, or other charges, are as follows:

Type Svc.	Old Rate	New Rate
Res. 1 Pty.	5.20	5.65
Res. 2 Pty.	4.30	4.70
Res. 4 Pty.	4.65	5.05
Res. 8 Pty.	4.15	4.50
Bus. 1 Pty	11.75	12.80
Bus. 4 Pty.	7.20	7.85
Bus. 8 Pty.	6.75	7.35
Semi-Public Coin	4.70	5.10

TOTALITARIAN TERRORISTS

At the risk of counterancing barbarism, it was always possible to understand, if not sympathize with, the Palestinian terrorists who hijacked airplanes and gunned down innocent people. They had no other means of expressing their political aspirations, it could be argued.

Not so those Puerto Rican nationalists who claimed "credit" for the bombing of a restaurant in New York City in which four persons were killed. By no stretch of the imaginzation can these murderers be said to be engaged in a legitimate cause.

By their own democratic choice, the people of Puerto Rico have rejected both statehood and independence in favor of their present status as a Commonwealth, or "free associated state," within the American orbit. By their own democratic choice, the people of Puerto Rico could at any time reverse that decision. But those groups advocating any other status for the island remain small, fringe minorities who over the years have been unable to win any significant popular support.

Thus the New York bombers are nothing but little Hitlers, little Stalins, who would impose their will and their totalitarian vision of the future on three million other Puerto Ricans. They are criminals, pure and simple.

Christmas trees may be hazardous to your health.

This post-season, Scroogelike warning comes from a Canadian allergist, Dr. Derek Wyse, who reports that seven per cent of some 1,600 patients developed rashes and respiratory symptoms during the Christmas holidays. The ailments, he claims, were directly traceable to Christmas trees.

According to Executive Fitness Newsletter, Dr. Wyse's investigations showed that the culprits were the same mold and pollen dusts responsible for summer allergies. When the trees were brought into the house, ragweed, sage and grass pollens that had attached themselves to the sticky bark of the evergreens were released into the warm, dry, indoor air.

MARCH'S TWIRLING DANCE

When March arrives, all bets are off. Who's to say what will happen next? A day of incomparable beauty, winds like those off Cape Horn, a still and sunny afternoon, a snowstorm that drifts deeply against the houses and hedges, a balmy foretaste of spring? Don't try to answer because the one sure thing about March is that it's unpredictable.

The name of the month suggests a slow and steady tread through time. But that's not accurate. March is more like Fred Astaire in his greatest year, twirling across the stage and back again, tapping out rhythms in inventive ways, sweeping to and fro, pausing for long moments in near suspension and then gliding on again.

The energy of the world around us begins to be felt. A gust out of the South flicks the last fallen leaves of winter, and the sun draws yellow jonquils and dainty spring beauties up through the brown carpet.

Life moves tentatively out into the open to test the atmosphere. Once it decides to press ahead toward the green months there is no turning back.

But there is much excitement. To risk a little is to win a lot, and March gambles everything on belief in change and growth.

To be a part of March is to dare — and to win. Who wouldn't feel like dancing at such a time?

Issues no Longer So big on Campus

Where did all the issues go?" asked a recent editorial in one midwestern college student newspaper.

The causes and slogans which once took up much of student energies, wrath and idealism-Kent State, Black Power, the clenched fist, the Pentagon-seem almost campish on the campus these days. All these "causes" are still very important but seem to matter less in the consciousness of student thought, the editorial lamented.

The average freshman who entered college in the fall of 1973 was, indeed, a different breed of cat from his predecessors of a few years ago, according to to a survey by the Co-operative Institution Research Project and the American Council on Education.

The freshman survey has been conducted at 360 institutions described themselves as "middle of the road" politically, with 32 per cent characterizing themselves as "liberal" and 13 per cent describing themselves as "conservative."

The survey revealed that, overall, the freshmen tended to be academically conservative. Only 34 per cent favored abolishing grades, and only 35 per cent favored college admission being open to everyone.

The freshmen group also reflected a large measure of self-confidence. Some 54 per cent thought they would be satisfied with college; 57 per cent thought they would get a job of their chosen field; 60 per cent thought they had a good change to get a bachelor's degree, and 86 per cent didn't think they would make a major change in their career or degree choices.

Only 13 per cent said they expected to transfer to another school and less than 2 per cent felt they would drop out of college temporarily.

When asked what factors influenced their choice of careers, nearly 71 per cent of the students cited "intrinsic interest in the field," while 62 per cent said they wanted to be helpful to others. Another 48 per cent cited a vital need to contribute to society, while 42 per cent said that anticipated high earnings were an important factor.

That's where all the "issues" went.

Betcha Didn't Know...

If we are in this world to help others, what are the others here for.

The outer continental shelf off the Atlantic coast of the U.S. could contain up to 20 billion barrels of oil "discoverable and recoverable with today's technology", Charles J. THE PEOPLE KNOW

Periodic Gallup Polls of public opinion on various issues have been taken by a great many people, including large segments of the press as fairly accurate representations of public sentiment. Arecent such poll asked respondents to name the nation's two most important problems. Sixtv-two per cent of those answering said that the high cost o living was their main concern. Fourteen other problems were identified by those interviewed.

None mentioned health care as a problem, which is some what of a surprise in the light of efforts of political spokesmen to make health care a national issue in a drive to gain support for far-reaching national health insurance legislation.

Widely-publicized attempts to discredit the American medical system have stirred considerable criticism. In addition, surveys have shown a high degree of confidence in doctors as individuals. By contrast, other businesses and professions, including politics, rated low in public esteem. Perhaps the old saying that you cannot fool all of the people all of the time explains the findings of the polls. For example, there are medical statistics that make it difficult to fool anyone about the quality of American medical care. Figures from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare concerning general life expectancy in the United States are revealing. The infant mortality rate has improved 25 per cent in the past 10 years, and life expectancy has grown from 59.7 years in 1930 to 71.1 years in 1971.

These figures are a reflection of many factors including rising living standards. They also reflect steady advancement in the medical arts. They offer graphic evidence of the advantages of a medical system that has encouraged freedom of inquiry, steady scientific progress anc placed a high value on the independence of both patients and doctors. These are major vitures of U.S. medicine. It is hard to fool people about asomething like that.

Highest Medical Tradition

After 46 years Dr. Eugene R. Balthazar, an Illinois physician in general practice, has retired in a most unique fashion. He has established a free medical dispensary in his community and pays about $1,000 a month out of his own pocket to keep it running. The motto of this public-spirited doctor's clinic is, "if you can afford to pay, please see your family physician."

The free services are available mostly to acutely-ill children, and on an average day 80 to 100 patients receive treatment. But the 71-year-old retired doctor, who decided years ago that he wanted to end his"...professional career in this way," observes, "This community has been good to my family and me for decades, and I owe the people something." Dr. Balthazar's clinic is located in a former furniture store which he leases for $1 a year. Seven registered nurses, a licensed practical nurse and 19 community workers who do interpreting and clerical work serve the clinic on a voluntary basis. Pharmaceutical houses contribute supplies; and, in addition to volunteer aid from the medical and nursing professions, area dentists also have agreed to take patient referrals ona free basis.

The Illinois State Medical Society has presented its first Humanitarian of the Year award to this retired medical man who lived his life in the highest tradition of the medical profession--a tradition of professional dedication to the well-being of patients and fellowmen that has few equals in the annals of human endeavor.

The Choice We Face!

The U.S. is expectant. With the New York, the new President, the new Vice President and the new Congress, the feeling is widespread that our country is about an economic boom or an economic holocaust.

Hard-working Americans and their elected representatives must decide how best to achieve continuing improvement in living standards, cultural and material achievements, and a better educated population.

Either we deliberately will step over the edge of the economic precipice by too much dependence on government for relief of our economic miseries-or we will let the market system work.

The first signs of admustment are evident. Textiles and meat are almost sure to be lower-priced and housing starts are expected to climb rapidly in the spring. If the weatherman is kind to the food crops this summer, our inflation-wracked country should be on the road to recovery. What we do not need is a benevolent bureaucracy in Washington to out-guess the market place..

Threatening Your Future

The president of one of the largest pharmaceutical firms in the nation, in the course of addressing the Annual Meeting of shareowners of his company, observed that, "Looking to the future, we anticipate that one of our dominant strategies in the pharmaceutical field will continue to be growth by research, development and new product innovation."

This company works in a number of essential fields--medicines, chemicals, agricultural science, building supplies and other areas, "...that add to the quality of life." Many, if not most, of its endeavors in reserch and distributing the essentials of a better life are accepted as a matter of course. For instance, early in 1973 the company filed a New Drug Application covering a new agent for lowering blood pressue. Its Research Division also has several other promising new drugs in advanced clinical development--among them drugs for treatment of arthritis, cholesterol and angina pectoris. At one pont in his Address, the drug company official expressed concern over the U.S. decline in new drug development. He said the Food and Drug Administration"...is as much a victim of the times as everyone else, for FDA is responding to an attitude of our society abut pharmaceutical absolute, 'no-risk- safety, without reference to the real benefts to be derived, reasons will always be found to delay approval. The cost to patients deprived , of new and improved medication is incalculable. We urgently need to improve the regulatory process by lifting reflect the best judgements of medical science."

These words spoken to stockholders of one large prescription drug firm carry a message that reaches far beyond the profit and loss statement of a single business. They point to a fundamental threat to the future health and well-being of every one of us.

Hard Hats' 'Bread': Construction Unions Could Create Jobs By Investing Own Pension Billions in Projects

NEW YORK — So almost five years later, the hard hats hit City Hall square again. This time they were not shouting their support of the bombings of Cambodia. This time they were shouting for jobs and "bread." They pushed and shoved with the police. They tried to storm City Hall itself. They attempted to overturn the car of imperturbable Mayor Beame. They tied themselves into human chains. They blocked the Brooklyn Bridge for hours.

It seemed to me they had lost their appeal to reason. During wartime, construction boomed. So did their egos. So did their wages and fringes. So did their strikes. So did their paralyzing jurisdictional disputes. Now that international peace has broken out, time has come for tranquility and reason on the domestic front.

Those 10,000 demonstrating construction workers need a summit of their own. They have made building costs in this city, in northern New Jersey (and are making it on the West Coast) almost prohibitive. They must put into some dusty museum the kind of strike of elevator constructors which ran from September 1972 to January 1973 and which tied up a billion dollars' worth of construction for months. Or the kind of plumbers' strike which ran seven months, tying up half a billion dollars worth of apartment houses, schools and hospitals because one union faction was feuding with another.

They must cold-storage into eternity the type of jurisdictional strike which has very recently delayed construction when an electrical union challenged a Teamsters local on their right to move heavy computers from the sidewalk to the inside of a bank.

Blocking traffic won't do it. Storming City Hall won't do it. Wiping out a mind-block would do it. That is the elimination of the kind of thinking created by almost 35 years of war, that prosperity would go on forever and construction unions could "win each" heavy wage-fringe demand.

Furthermore, the hard hats protested the city's cut in its "capital (construction) budget." Well, the city, like so many others, is out of cash and maybe credit. So it seems to me time has come for a summit session with what's called the Construction Users Council (of New York).

Jobs and "bread" is the name of the game. That takes heavy money in the building field. Well, now is the time for the homeward bound New York City Building and Construction Trades Council president, the right honorable Peter Brennan, to tell it like it is to his followers.

Their unions have pension funds totaling some $10 billion or more. Allied unions in other fields have billions more. Their fraternal associates in the AFL-CIO Central Labor Council, the municipal employes, have a total of some $7 billion more. I'm certain there are other such funds.

These monies have been invested mostly in bonds and securities. They've taken a bath. But the pension payments come pouring in. True, there are some 21,000 construction workers jobless. But there are some 75,000 still working and the contractors pay pension money regularly.

Thus, why not invest some of the billions in solid first-class mortgages for construction projects? There is a new law, it should be noted, which we refer to as ERISA, the Employes Retirement Income Security Act. It says, in effect, that all pension investments must be of a prudent nature. Would you invest the pension money if it were your own?

Many fund trustees now are malpractice-shy. They would be responsible if they invested in housing projects or other construction and the operations went sour. They could be sued by the rank and file. But it all could be legally, safely and prudently achieved, though some banks and specialists don't agree.

For example, shortly after the five-hour hard hat demonstration, a large group of real estate men, construction users, contractors, union chiefs and state and city officials, including Mayor Beame's labor counsel Ted Kheel, met in a Fifth Avenue office.

They discussed the possibility of raising $140 million to help finance, under a solid first mortgage, the John Portman realty group's proposed huge hotel in Times Square. It would need some $200 million I'm told. It would be a city within a city, containing some 2,000 rooms and be "tied in" with a proposed convention center. It would create thousands of new jobs.

Never did I think in my newsboy delivery days I'd be writing that $140 million is a paltry sum. But compared with the billions in the union pension funds, it's petty cash. It can be secured. Pete Brannan, who as ex-Secretary of Labor would know, could assure the group that he did not believe it would violate the prudency section of ERISA. True, that law still must be studied. But the theory of union pension funds being invested at a reasonable rate of interest to create jobs and "bread" cannot be considered imprudent under the law.

True, the pension funds now are earning higher interest rates. But isn't that rate the "abuse" against which the natoinal construction union leaders are screaming? Why storm City Hall? Isn't it written somewhere that the Lord helps those who help themselves?

The construction unions' pension money could help those unions put their people back to work. Why not?

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Savagery in Cambodia

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — As the fighting over Cambodia approaches the showdown stage, according to classified cables from the U.S. embassy, Communist forces have turned upon the civilian population with a sudden savagery.

The cables describe a bloodbath in the countryside. Villages have been destroyed, and the inhabitants "have been ruthlessly executed by knifing or burning." Even small children have been brutalized.

"The enemy appears to have shifted some of the focus of his attacks from the battlefield to the village," ambassador John Gunther Dean has reported in a grim message to the State Department. "...Ignoring static (government) defensive military positions, the enemy has concentrated their attacks on villages, directing their fire at villagers."

Villagers who resist Communist overtures, says Dean, are declared the "main enemy," with Buddhist monks next and government troops third.

"This is not an isolated phenomena," (sic) claims Dean, "but rather seems to be indicative of a new enemy strategy to inflict even more suffering on the civilian population of Cambodia."

The classified cables refer to the opposing forces by their French initials. Government troops are called FANK, and Communist guerrillas are identified as KC.

"FANK has not shown the ability to protect villages from Communist attack," Dean reports tersely. "...KC, by keeping refugees off farmland and nonproductive, continues to demoralize their spirit."

Our intelligence sources point out that terror has been used by both sides in Cambodia. Government troops have been accused in the past of ugly atrocities. But the reports from the Cambodian hinterland have seldom been more horrifying.

One cable, telling of an assault upon the refugee camp of Tuol Trach, declares: "Ten villagers were killed, 10 wounded and a few are still missing. Six of the 10 villagers killed were young children, under 10 years of age, and were brutally executed by knife and bayonet after being captured by the enemy."

Dean offers this assessment of the new Communist ruthlessness: "Inquiries as to motives of the enemy have produced a similarity of response, with the answers varying only in degree of sophistication.

"The refugees express the view that the KC forces control most of the land area but need more people. The attacks are seen by the refugees as enemy punishment inflicted on them for rejecting KC offers to come over to the KC side, or to cease cooperating with the Phnom Penh side.

"Rather than trying to capture villagers and forcibly move them to KC-controlled territory, the refugees feel that the KC wants to demonstrate that FANK is unable to give protection ...

"Military authorities ... indicate that the enemy has concentrated on areas where there has been an active effort to put the villagers back into agricultural production, or where there is a strong government-supported village militia."

The cables report that "in some areas, village militia forces have been fairly effective against enemy attacks because the village men sometimes stay and fight until their families have had a chance to flee to safety."

The cables also contend that "in spite of lack of protection which exposes villagers to daily attacks, and in spite of the many hardships of being a refugee on the (government) side, most refugees intimate that they would rather be poor and suffering but have their freedom than live under the stifling regime of the KC.

"This is borne out by thousands of refugees that have fled from KC-controlled areas compared to the almost negligible number of refugees who, in spite of the imperfections and fault of the (government), have moved from government-held territory to the KC side."

Footnote: In past columns, we have quoted earlier, secret embassy cables that criticized the Cambodian government's "haphazard, out-of-channel and ill-coordinated conduct of military operations." One secret dispatch described the Cambodian strong man, Lon Nol, as "a sick man, both physically and mentally." It told of widespread incompetence and corruption throughout his governemnt.

WATCH ON WASTE: The Coast Guard has authorized Rear Adm. Glenn Thompson to spend $135,000 of the taxpayers' money on a house for himself in Juneau, Alaska. The plans include $10,800 for a heated, two-car garage and $2,800 for landscaping. He'll also get a $4,000 annual allowance to maintain the place. A Coast Guard spokesman explained that the admiral needed the $135,000 home ..."to fulfill his social and business obligations in an atmosphere consistent with his position."

-- The taxpayers foot the bill to haul 122 military children from Andrews Air Force Base to private schools in the Washington, D. C. area. Five blue military vans, complete with drivers, transport the youingsters to 12 different schools within a 20-mile radius.

-- The Transportation Department shelled out $1,300 not to mention hundreds of dollars worth of man hours, to compile a 290-page information directory. But the directory, apparently, contained more information than the top brass wanted to put out. So all but some file copies were hastily shoved into the shredder. Consumer advocates, who learned about the existence of the directory, were told they must pay $72.50 for photocopies. Commercial firms charge $15 for the same a; mount of work.

Scientists with the Agricultural Research Institute of Tunisia have discovered that the mating call of the local fruitfly has exactly the same frequency as the lower F No. on the Hohner Melodica Piano 26 harmonica.

As determined by using an oscilloscope, the frequency is 369.99 Hz, give or take 2.2 Hz.

The researchers are now buzzin among themselves to figure out some way to use this knowledge to control the pests.

Rep. Jim Collins (R-Tex.) has proposed legislation that would tie congressional pay to fiscal responsibility. "If there is a deficit, congressmen would take a 10 per cent cut in salary," Collins proposed. "But for every $2 billion surplus, congressmen would receive a 1 per cent salary increase." The lawmaker says the proposal could help curb the "liberal spenders in Congress."

We'll buy that! Let's give it a try.

WHY SANTA SNEEZES

Christmas trees may be hazardous to your health.

This post-season, Scroogelike warning comes from a Canadian allergist, Dr.Derek Wyse, who reports that seven per cent of some 1,600 patients developed rashes and respiratory symptoms during the Christmas holidays. The ailments, he claims, were directly traceable to Christmas trees.

According to Executive Fitness Newsletter, Dr. Wyse's investigations showed that the culprits were the same mold and pollen dusts responsible for summer allergies. When the trees were brought into the house, ragweed, sage and grass pollens that had attached themselves to the sticky bark of the evergreens were released into the warm, dry, indoor air.

MARCH'S TWIRLING DANCE

When March arrives, all bets are off. Who's to say what will happen next? A day of incomparable beauty, winds like those off Cape Horn, a still and sunny afternoon, a snowstorm that drifts deeply against the houses and hedges, a balmy foretaste of spring? Don't try to answer because the one sure thing about March is that it's unpredictable.

The name of the month suggests a slow and steady tread through time. But that's not accurate. March is more like Fred Astaire in his greatest year, twirling across the stage and back again, tapping out rhythms in inventive ways, sweeping to and fro, pausing for long moments in near suspension and then gliding on again.

The energy of the world around us begins to be felt. A gust out of the South flicks the last fallen leaves of winter, and the sun draws yellow jonquils and dainty spring beauties up through the brown carpet.

Life moves tentatively out into the open to test the atmosphere. Once it decides to press ahead toward the green months there is no turning back.

But there is much excitement. To risk a little is to win a lot, and March gambles everything on belief in change and growth.

To be a part of March is to dare — and to win. Who wouldn't feel like dancing at such a time?

Issues no Longer So big on Campus

Where did all the issues go?" asked a recent editorial in one midwestern college student newspaper.

The causes and slogans which once took up much of student energies, wrath and idealism-Kent State, Black Power, the clenched fist, the Pentagon-seem almost campish on the campus these days. All these "causes" are still very important but seem to matter less in the consciousness of student thought, the editorial lamented.

The average freshman who entered college in the fall of 1973 was, indeed, a different breed of cat from his predecessors of a few years ago, according to to a survey by the Co-operative Institution Research Project and the American Council on Education.

The freshman survey has been conducted at 360 institutions described themselves as "middle of the road" politically, with 32 per cent characterizing themselves as "liberal" and 13 per cent describing themselves as "conservative."

The survey revealed that, overall, the freshmen tended to be academically conservative. Only 34 per cent favored abolishing grades, and only 35 per cent favored college admission being open to everyone.

The freshmen group also reflected a large measure of self-confidence. Some 54 per cent thought they would be satisfied with college; 57 per cent thought they would get a job of their chosen field; 60 per cent thought they had a good change to get a bachelor's degree, and 86 per cent didn't think they would make a major change in their career or degree choices.

Only 13 per cent said they expected to transfer to another school and less than 2 per cent felt they would drop out of college temporarily.

When asked what factors influenced their choice of careers, nearly 71 per cent of the students cited "intrinsic interest in the field," while 62 per cent said they wanted to be helpful to others. Another 48 per cent cited a vital need to contribute to society, while 42 per cent said that anticipated high earnings were an important factor.

That's where all the "issues" went.

Betcha Didn't Know...

If we are in this world to help others, what are the others here for.

The outer continental shelf off the Atlantic coast of the U.S. could contain up to 20 billion barrels of oil "discoverable and recoverable with today's technology", Charles J. DiBona, executive vice president of the American Petroleum Institute stated recently before New York's Empire State Petroleum Association.

THE PEOPLE KNOW

Periodic Gallup Polls of public opinion on various issues have been taken by a great many people, including large segments of the press as fairly accurate representations of public sentiment. Arecent such poll asked respondents to name the nation's two most important problems. Sixtv-two per cent of those answering said that the high cost o living was their main concern. Fourteen other problems were identified by those interviewed.

None mentioned health care as a problem, which is some what of a surprise in the light of efforts of political spokesmen to make health care a national issue in a drive to gain support for far-reaching national health insurance legislation.

Widely-publicized attempts to discredit the American medical system have stirred considerable criticism. In addition, surveys have shown a high degree of confidence in doctors as individuals. By contrast, other businesses and professions, including politics, rated low in public esteem. Perhaps the old saying that you cannot fool all of the people all of the time explains the findings of the polls. For example, there are medical statistics that make it difficult to fool anyone about the quality of American medical care. Figures from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare concerning general life expectancy in the United States are revealing. The infant mortality rate has improved 25 per cent in the past 10 years, and life expectancy has grown from 59.7 years in 1930 to 71.1 years in 1971.

These figures are a reflection of many factors including rising living standards. They also reflect steady advancement in the medical arts. They offer graphic evidence of the advantages of a medical system that has encouraged freedom of inquiry, steady scientific progress and placed a high value on the independence of both patients and doctors. These are major vitures of U.S. medicine. It is hard to fool people about asomething like that.

Highest Medical Tradition

After 46 years Dr. Eugene R. Balthazar, an Illinois physician in general practice, has retired in a most unique fashion. He has established a free medical dispensary in his community and pays about $1,000 a month out of his own pocket to keep it running. The motto of this public-spirited doctor's clinic is, "if you can afford to pay, please see your family physician."

The free services are available mostly to acutely-ill children, and on an average day 80 to 100 patients receive treatment. But the 71-year-old retired doctor, who decided years ago that he wanted to end his''...professional career in this way," observes, "This community has been good to my family and me for decades, and I owe the people something." Dr. Balthazar's clinic is located in a former furniture store which he leases for $1 a year. Seven registered nurses, a licensed practical nurse and 19 community workers who do interpreting and clerical work serve the clinic on a voluntary basis. Pharmaceutical houses contribute supplies; and, in addition to volunteer aid from the medical and nursing professions, area dentists also have agreed to take patient referrals ona free basis.

The Illinois State Medical Society has presented its first Humanitarian of the Year award to this retired medical man who lived his life in the highest tradition of the medical profession--a tradition of professional dedication to the well-being of patients and fellowmen that has few equals in the annals of human endeavor.

The Choice We Face!

The U.S. is expectant. With the New York, the new President, the new Vice President and the new Congress, the feeling is widespread that our country is about an economic boom or an economic holocaust.

Hard-working Americans and their elected representatives must decide how best to achieve continuing improvement in living standards, cultural and material achievements, and a better educated population.

Either we deliberately will step over the edge of the economic precipice by too much dependence on government for relief of our economic miseries-or we will let the market system work.

The first signs of admustment are evident. Textiles and meat are almost sure to be lower-priced and housing starts are expected to climb rapidly in the spring. If the weatherman is kind to the food crops this summer, our inflation-wracked country should be on the road to recovery. What we do not need is a benevolent bureaucracy in Washington to out-guess the market place..

Threatening Your Future

The president of one of the largest pharmaceutical firms in the nation, in the course of addressing the Annual Meeting of shareowners of his company, observed that, "Looking to the future, we anticipate that one of our dominant strategies in the pharmaceutical field will continue to be growth by research, development and new product innovation."

This company works in a number of essential fields--medicines, chemicals, agricultural science, building supplies and other areas, "...that add to the quality of life." Many, if not most, of its endeavors in reserch and distributing the essentials of a better life are accepted as a matter of course. For instance, early in 1973 the company filed a New Drug Application covering a new agent for lowering blood pressue. Its Research Division also has several other promising new drugs in advanced clinical development--among them drugs for treatment of arthritis, cholesterol and angina pectoris. At one pont in his Address, the drug company official expressed concern over the U.S. decline in new drug development. He said the Food and Drug Administration"...is as much a victim of the times as everyone else, for FDA is responding to an attitude of our society abut pharmaceutical absolute, 'no-risk- safety, without reference to the real benefts to be derived, reasons will always be found to delay approval. The cost to patients deprived, of new and improved medication is incalculable. We urgently need to improve the regulatory process by lifting reflect the best judgements of medical science."

These words spoken to stockholders of one large prescription drug firm carry a message that reaches far beyond the profit and loss statement of a single business. They point to a fundamental threat to the future health and well-being of every one of us.

Hard Hats' 'Bread': Construction Unions Could Create Jobs By Investing Own Pension Billions in Projects

NEW YORK — So almost five years later, the hard hats hit City Hall square again. This time they were not shouting their support of the bombings of Cambodia. This time they were shouting for jobs and "bread." They pushed and shoved with the police. They tried to storm City Hall itself. They attempted to overturn the car of imperturbable Mayor Beame. They tied themselves into human chains. They blocked the Brooklyn Bridge for hours.

It seemed to me they had lost their appeal to reason. During wartime, construction boomed. So did their egos. So did their wages and fringes. So did their strikes. So did their paralyzing jurisdictional disputes. Now that international peace has broken out, time has come for tranquility and reason on the domestic front.

Those 10,000 demonstrating construction workers need a summit of their own. They have made building costs in this city, in northern New Jersey (and are making it on the West Coast) almost prohibitive. They must put into some dusty museum the kind of strike of elevator constructors which ran from September 1972 to January 1973 and which tied up a billion dollars' worth of construction for months. Or the kind of plumbers' strike which ran seven months, tying up half a billion dollars worth of apartment houses, schools and hospitals because one union faction was feuding with another.

They must cold-storage into eternity the type of jurisdictional strike which has very recently delayed construction when an electrical union challenged a Teamsters local on their right to move heavy computers from the sidewalk to the inside of a bank.

Blocking traffic won't do it. Storming City Hall won't do it. Wiping out a mind-block would do it. That is the elimination of the kind of thinking created by almost 35 years of war, that prosperity would go on forever and construction unions could "win each" heavy wage-fringe demand.

Furthermore, the hard hats protested the city's cut in its "capital (construction) budget." Well, the city, like so many others, is out of cash and maybe credit. So it seems to me time has come for a summit session with what's called the Construction Users Council (of New York).

Jobs and "bread" is the name of the game. That takes heavy money in the building field. Well, now is the time for the homeward bound New York City Building and Construction Trades Council president, the right honorable Peter Brennan, to tell it like it is to his followers.

Their unions have pension funds totaling some $10 billion or more. Allied unions in other fields have billions more. Their fraternal associates in the AFL-CIO Central Labor Council, the municipal employes, have a total of some $7 billion more. I'm certain there are other such funds.

These monies have been invested mostly in bonds and securities. They've taken a bath. But the pension payments come pouring in. True, there are some 21,000 construction workers jobless. But there are some 75,000 still working and the contractors pay pension money regularly.

Thus, why not invest some of the billions in solid first-class mortgages for construction projects? There is a new law, it should be noted, which we refer to as ERISA, the Employes Retirement Income Security Act. It says, in effect, that all pension investments must be of a prudent nature. Would you invest the pension money if it were your own?

Many fund trustees now are malpractice-shy. They would be responsible if they invested in housing projects or other construction and the operations went sour. They could be sued by the rank and file. But it all could be legally, safely and prudently achieved, though some banks and specialists don't agree.

For example, shortly after the five-hour hard hat demonstration, a large group of real estate men, construction users, contractors, union chiefs and state and city officials, including Mayor Beame's labor counsel Ted Kheel, met in a Fifth Avenue office.

They discussed the possibility of raising $140 million to help finance, under a solid first mortgage, the John Portman realty group's proposed huge hotel in Times Square. It would need some $200 million I'm told. It would be a city within a city, containing some 2,000 rooms and be "tied in" with a proposed convention center. It would create thousands of new jobs.

Never did I think in my newsboy delivery days I'd be writing that $140 million is a paltry sum. But compared with the billions in the union pension funds, it's petty cash. It can be secured. Pete Brannan, who as ex-Secretary of Labor would know, could assure the group that he did not believe it would violate the prudency section of ERISA. True, that law still must be studied. But the theory of union pension funds being invested at a reasonable rate of interest to create jobs and "bread" cannot be considered imprudent under the law.

True, the pension funds now are earning higher interest rates. But isn't that rate the "abuse" against which the natoinal construction union leaders are screaming? Why storm City Hall? Isn't it written somewhere that the Lord helps those who help themselves?

The construction unions' pension money could help those unions put their people back to work. Why not?

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Savagery in Cambodia

By JACK ANDERSON
with
Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — As the fighting over Cambodia approaches the showdown stage, according to classified cables from the U.S. embassy, Communist forces have turned upon the civilian population with a sudden savagery.

The cables describe a bloodbath in the countryside. Villages have been destroyed, and the inhabitants "have been ruthlessly executed by knifing or burning." Even small children have been brutalized.

"The enemy appears to have shifted some of the focus of his attacks from the battlefield to the village," ambassador John Gunther Dean has reported in a grim message to the State Department. "...Ignoring static (government) defensive military positions, the enemy has concentrated their attacks on villages, directing their fire at villagers."

Villagers who resist Communist overtures, says Dean, are declared the "main enemy," with Buddhist monks next and government troops third.

"This is not an isolated phenomena," (sic) claims Dean, "but rather seems to be indicative of a new enemy strategy to inflict even more suffering on the civilian population of Cambodia."

The classified cables refer to the opposing forces by their French initials. Government troops are called FANK, and Communist guerrillas are identified as KC.

"FANK has not shown the ability to protect villages from Communist attack," Dean reports tersely. "...KC, by keeping refugees off farmland and nonproductive, continues to demoralize their spirit."

Our intelligence sources point out that terror has been used by both sides in Cambodia. Government troops have been accused in the past of ugly atrocities. But the reports from the Cambodian hinterland have seldom been more horrifying.

One cable, telling of an assault upon the refugee camp of Tuol Trach, declares: "Ten villagers were killed, 10 wounded and a few are still missing. Six of the 10 villagers killed were young children, under 10 years of age, and were brutally executed by knife and bayonet after being captured by the enemy."

Dean offers this assessment of the new Communist ruthlessness: "Inquiries as to motives of the enemy have produced a similarity of response, with the answers varying only in degree of sophistication.

"The refugees express the view that the KC forces control most of the land area but need more people. The attacks are seen by the refugees as enemy punishment inflicted on them for rejecting KC offers to come over to the KC side, or to cease cooperating with the Phnom Penh side.

"Rather than trying to capture villagers and forcibly move them to KC-controlled territory, the refugees feel that the KC wants to demonstrate that FANK is unable to give protection ...

"Military authorities ... indicate that the enemy has concentrated on areas where there has been an active effort to put the villagers back into agricultural production, or where there is a strong government-supported village militia."

The cables report that "in some areas, village militia forces have been fairly effective against enemy attacks because the village men sometimes stay and fight until their families have had a chance to flee to safety."

The cables also contend that "in spite of lack of protection which exposes villagers to daily attacks, and in spite of the many hardships of being a refugee on the (government) side, most refugees intimate that they would rather be poor and suffering but have their freedom than live under the stifling regime of the KC.

"This is borne out by thousands of refugees that have fled from KC-controlled areas compared to the almost negligible number of refugees who, in spite of the imperfections and fault of the (government), have moved from government-held territory to the KC side."

Footnote: In past columns, we have quoted earlier, secret embassy cables that criticized the Cambodian government's "haphazard, out-of-channel and ill-coordinated conduct of military operations." One secret dispatch described the Cambodian strong man, Lon Nol, as "a sick man, both physically and mentally." It told of widespread incompetence and corruption throughout his governemnt.

WATCH ON WASTE: The Coast Guard has authorized Rear Adm. Glenn Thompson to spend $135,000 of the taxpayers' money on a house for himself in Juneau, Alaska. The plans include $10,800 for a heated, two-car garage and $2,800 for landscaping. He'll also get a $4,000 annual allowance to maintain the place. A Coast Guard spokesman explained that the admiral needed the $135,000 home ..."to fulfill his social and business obligations in an atmosphere consistent with his position."

-- The taxpayers foot the bill to haul 122 military children from Andrews Air Force Base to private schools in the Washington, D. C. area. Five blue military vans, complete with drivers, transport the youingsters to 12 different schools within a 20-mile radius.

-- The Transportation Department shelled out $1,300 not to mention hundreds of dollars worth of man hours, to compile a 290-page information directory. But the directory, apparently, contained more information than the top brass wanted to put out. So all but some file copies were hastily shoved into the shredder. Consumer advocates, who learned about the existence of the directory, were told they must pay $72.50 for photocopies. Commercial firms charge $15 for the same a; mount of work.

Oran qualifies for insurance

4 seek school board positions

HOWARDVILLE — A contest has developed among four candidates for two positions on the New Madrid County R-1 Enlarged School District board of education to be filled in the annual school election on April 1. The filing deadline was Thursday.

The candidates for the two three-year terms include the two incumbents, Hoyte Butler of Parma and Metts Hawkins of Portageville Route One, and two challengers, Opal Bondurant of Catron and Harold Dial of Portageville.

Deputy calls for assistance

DEXTER — Several law enforcement officers from the Stoddard County sheriff's department and the highway patrol were dispatched to Mary Jo's Lounge Saturday night after a sheriff's deputy called for assistance when he tried to arrest a burglary suspect who was a customer in the lounge, which is located on Highway 60 West.

Bill Baker, 24, of Bloomfield was picked up for questioning in connection with a recent Bloomfield area burglary. He also was arrested for resisting arrest and striking an officer.

Burglars hit Dexter church

DEXTER--City police are investigating a break-in sometime Saturday at the Assembly of God Church, 526 N. Sassafras St.

According to Police Chief Ken Tippen, the pastor's office was entered and a pocket knife was the only item reported missing No sign of forcible entry was detected.

Tentative approval given to budget

EAST PRAIRIE--Tentative approval of the 1975-76 operating budget for the R-2 School District was given Thursday night by the board of education.

The budget, summitted by superintendent Gerald McElrath, listed estimated expenditures of $1,829,366 and estimated receipts of $1,774,262, making a deficit speniding of $55,104.

The board also approved retaining the present $3.25 per $100 evaluation tax levy. Voters in the district approved a 30-cent increase in the school tax levy in April of 1974, bringing the rate to the present level. The operating budget for this school year totaled $1,695,132.

Base salary for teachers in the district was set at $7,900 for the coming. This is an increase of $500 over the present base of $7,400.

The resignation of Lawayne Law, high school principal and Bill Beck, high school basketball coach and social studies instructor at the junior high, were accepted. Law has accepted the position of superintendent of schools in Leadwood.

A report listing the advantages of closed campus for next year at the high school was given by Law. The matter was taken under advisement by the board.

Some of the advanatages listed would be dismissal of school at 3 p.m. instead of 3:20 p.m. After school activities, including student-teacher conferences, practicing for sports, and custodial services would benefit from closed campus. Hall congestion would be alleviated during the noon period if closed campuses was initiated. Since the lunch schedule would be revised to divide the noon hour into two 30-minute periods, with half of the students in each time period.

School attendance, according to the report, would also be improved since students would remain at the school all day and not leave the premises at noon. The problem of traffic congestion during the noon hour would also be alleviated.

Two new curriculum offerings were presented by McElrath. One is a coopearative occupational - ducational plan whereby between 15 and 20 students could be employed half days by local businesses during the school week. The other is a building trades program which would also be available for half days.

The proposals have been sent to the state department for approval. Should they be approved by the state and the local level two additional part-time instructors would be required.

Precincts for the April 1 school election were selected. City residents will be in the fire station and high school lobby. Rural residents will ballot in the teen town building. Residents in the James Bayou and Wolf Island Township will vote at the old Dorena School.

Two board members are to be elected for three-year terms Candidates include incumbents Donals Dick and Clayton Allstun. The third candidate is Jim Robinson Jr.

The board also approved a school numeration census which by law must be made every five years. Miss Charlostte Parker will take the census which will cover children ages six through 19. The last census showed a total of 2,064 in the R-2 district.

Lankford, Capshaw file for mayor

CHAFFEE — Les D. Lankford and Robert H. Capshaw will oppose each other for Mayor in the April 1 election, City Clerk Lois Murphy said today. Filing deadline was 5 p.m. Friday.

Mayor Sally Wehmeyer did not file for re-election.

Bill Hagan had filed for mayor, but then withdrew his name, Mrs. Murphy said.

Incumbent Edna Murphy is running unopposed for treasurer. Incumbent William G. Vickery is running unopposed for the police judge, and incumbent Charles Cuningham is running unopposed for collector.

Joe Perry Rice III is running unopposed for the position of city attorney, which is presently held by Lewis Blanton.

Running for alderman in ward one are incumbent Carlos Crump and challengers D. R. Boulware and Claude Curtis.

In Ward Two George F. Stone, E. E. McConnell Jr. and Tom Hope have filed for the expired term of Morris Welch.

James R. Delezene is unopposed for alderman in Ward Three.

In Ward Four Ronald Moyers and Jesse H. Gettings have filed for the unexpired term of Pat O'Mara, who resigned for health reasons. Glen Hinkebein, Bill Whistler and Bill Hagan have filed for the ward four position.

The mayor will be elected to a four-year term. Each of the other positions will be for two-year terms.

2 file for mayor of Scott City

SCOTT CITY — James Cauble, councilman from Ward Two, will oppose incumbent Clifford Campbell for Mayor in the city's April 1 elections, City Clerk Ada Jane Davis said today. Filing deadline was 5 p.m. Friday.

Mary Ann Weisenborn will oppose incumbent Virginia Richardson for city collector.

Incumbent Wesley Page is running unopposed for police judge and incumbents Wesley Holdcroft in Ward One, Marvin Arnold in Ward Three and R. G. Hanschen in Ward Four are running unopposed for re-election.

Running the Ward Two position are Richard Hink and John Hockersmith.

All positions are for two-year terms.

Races develop for P'ville offices

PORTAGEVILLE — Races are on for elective offices in the April 1 city election, except for the city collector post held by Margaret DeRousse Phillips, who is unopposed for re-election. The filing deadline was Saturday.

Two candidates have filed for the office of mayor. Ward Two Alderman Don Rone Jr., whose term is expiring, is challenged by Bob Carlisle for the mayor's position, which is being relinquished by Barry Richardson.

Police Chief Joe Moore, bidding for his 11th two-year term, is opposed by Vester Robinson.

Ward One Alderman Benny Goodman is opposed for re-election by Carroll LeSieur.

Joe Simmons and Patrick McCrate filed for the ward two aldermanic post being vacated by Rone.

Oran qualifies for insurance

ORAN — Tenth District Rep. Bill D. Burlison of Cape Girardeau has announced that, effective Thursday, the Department of Housing and Urban Development has qualified the city of Oran for subsidized flood insurance.

Burlison said that all structures used for residential, business, religious or agricultural purposes, structures occupied by nonprofit organizatoins and structures owned by state or local governments are eligible for flood insurance coverage.

Oran qualified under this program when it agreed to adopt land use and control measures to minimize flood damage to future constructoin, burlison said.

Local insurance agents may obtain policies and other information from the National Flood Insurers Associatoin servicing office in Missouri, which is MFA InsuranceCompanies, 1817 W. Broadway, Columbia Mo. 65201.

Paris named chaplain of day

The Rev. Wade Paris, pastor of Murray Lane Baptist Church, 807 W. Murray Lane, appointed chaplin for the day by the Missouri House of Representatives and was scheduled to open the House session with a prayer at 4 p.m. today, according to State Rep. C.F. Cline of Sikeston.

Cline said he is allowed each year to appoint two chaplains for the day. He said he appointes one from the Scott County portion of his district and one from the Stoddard County portion.

4 seek school board positions

HOWARDVILLE — A contest has developed among four candidates for two positions on the New Madrid County R-1 Enlarged School District board of education to be filled in the annual school election on April 1. The filing deadline was Thursday.

The candidates for the two three-year terms include the two incumbents, Hoyte Butler of Parma and Metts Hawkins of Portageville Route One, and two challengers, Opal Bondurant of Catron and Harold Dial of Portageville.

Deputy calls for assistance

DEXTER — Several law enforcement officers from the Stoddard County sheriff's department and the highway patrol were dispatched to Mary Jo's Lounge Saturday night after a sheriff's deputy called for assistance when he tried to arrest a burglary suspect who was a customer in the lounge, which is located on Highway 60 West.

Bill Baker, 24, of Bloomfield was picked up for questioning in connection with a recent Bloomfield area burglary. He also was arrested for resisting arrest and striking an officer.

Burglars hit Dexter church

DEXTER--City police are investigating a break-in sometime Saturday at the Assembly of God Church, 526 N. Sassafras St.

According to Police Chief Ken Tippen, the pastor's office was entered and a pocket knife was the only item reported missing No sign of forcible entry was detected.

Tokyo and Osaka, two major cities in Japan, already have coin machines that dispense a whiff of oxygen into a face mask for pedestrians gasping amid traffic fumes.

Tentative approval given to budget

EAST PRAIRIE--Tentative approval of the 1975-76 operating budget for the R-2 School District was given Thursday night by the board of education.

The budget, summitted by superintendent Gerald McElrath, listed estimated expenditures of $1,829,366 and estimated receipts of $1,774,262, making a deficit speniding of $55,104.

The board also approved retaining the present $3.25 per $100 evaluation tax levy. Voters in the district approved a 30-cent increase in the school tax levy in April of 1974, bringing the rate to the present level. The operating budget for this school year totaled $1,695,132.

Base salary for teachers in the district was set at $7,900 for the coming. This is an increase of $500 over the present base of $7,400.

The resignation of Lawayne Law, high school principal and Bill Beck, high school basketball coach and social studies instructor at the junior high, were accepted. Law has accepted the position of superintendent of schools in Leadwood.

A report listing the advantages of closed campus for next year at the high school was given by Law. The matter was taken under advisement by the board.

Some of the advanatages listed would be dismissal of school at 3 p.m. instead of 3:20 p.m. After school activities, including student-teacher conferences, practicing for sports, and custodial services would benefit from closed campus. Hall congestion would be alleviated during the noon period if closed campuses was initiated. Since the lunch schedule would be revised to divide the noon hour into two 30-minute periods, with half of the students in each time period.

School attendance, according to the report, would also be improved since students would remain at the school all day and not leave the premises at noon. The problem of traffic congestion during the noon hour would also be alleviated.

Two new curriculum offerings were presented by McElrath . One is a coopearative occupational - ducational plan whereby between 15 and 20 students could be employed half days by local businesses during the school week. The other is a building trades program which would also be available for half days.

The proposals have been sent to the state department for approval. Should they be approved by the state and the local level two additional part-time instructors would be required.

Precincts for the April 1 school election were selected. City residents will be in the fire station and high school lobby. Rural residents will ballot in the teen town building. Residents in the James Bayou and Wolf Island Township will vote at the old Dorena School.

Two board members are to be elected for three-year terms Candidates include incumbents Donals Dick and Clayton Allstun. The third candidate is Jim Robinson Jr.

The board also approved a school numeration census which by law must be made every five years. Miss Charlostte Parker will take the census which will cover children ages six through 19. The last census showed a total of 2,064 in the R-2 district.

Lankford, Capshaw file for mayor

CHAFFEE — Les D. Lankford and Robert H. Capshaw will oppose each other for Mayor in the April 1 election, City Clerk Lois Murphy said today. Filing deadline was 5 p.m. Friday.

Mayor Sally Wehmeyer did not file for re-election.

Bill Hagan had filed for mayor, but then withdrew his name, Mrs. Murphy said.

Incumbent Edna Murphy is running unopposed for treasurer. Incumbent William G. Vickery is running unopposed for the police judge, and incumbent Charles Cuningham is running unopposed for collector.

Joe Perry Rice III is running unopposed for the position of city attorney, which is presently held by Lewis Blanton.

Running for alderman in ward one are incumbent Carlos Crump and challengers D. R. Boulware and Claude Curtis.

In Ward Two George F. Stone, E. E. McConnell Jr. and Tom Hope have filed for the expired term of Morris Welch.

James R. Delezene is unopposed for alderman in Ward Three.

In Ward Four Ronald Moyers and Jesse H. Gettings have filed for the unexpired term of Pat O'Mara, who resigned for health reasons. Glen Hinkebein, Bill Whistler and Bill Hagan have filed for the ward four position.

The mayor will be elected to a four-year term. Each of the other positions will be for two-year terms.

2 file for mayor of Scott City

SCOTT CITY — James Cauble, councilman from Ward Two, will oppose incumbent Clifford Campbell for Mayor in the city's April 1 elections, City Clerk Ada Jane Davis said today. Filing deadline was 5 p.m. Friday.

Mary Ann Weisenborn will oppose incumbent Virginia Richardson for city collector.

Incumbent Wesley Page is running unopposed for police judge and incumbents Wesley Holdcroft in Ward One, Marvin Arnold in Ward Three and R. G. Hanschen in Ward Four are running unopposed for re-election.

Running the Ward Two position are Richard Hink and John Hockersmith.

All positions are for two-year terms.

Races develop for P'ville offices

PORTAGEVILLE — Races are on for elective offices in the April 1 city election, except for the city collector post held by Margaret DeRousse Phillips, who is unopposed for re-election. The filing deadline was Saturday.

Two candidates have filed for the office of mayor. Ward Two Alderman Don Rone Jr., whose term is expiring, is challenged by Bob Carlisle for the mayor's position, which is being relinquished by Barry Richardson.

Police Chief Joe Moore, bidding for his 11th two-year term, is opposed by Vester Robinson.

Ward One Alderman Benny Goodman is opposed for re-election by Carroll LeSieur.

Joe Simmons and Patrick McCrate filed for the ward two aldermanic post being vacated by Rone.

"more spice than everything nice"

Ann Landers

Breast cancer emphasis scares woman out of wits

Dear Ann Landers: The emotinal damage to my nerves has been far greater than the risk of undetected breast cancer--thanks to all the publicity since Mrs. Ford and Mrs. Rockefeller have had mastectomies.

The media have had such a field day with those two women that I examine my breasts twice a day for lumps although I've been to three physicians in the past two months and they'llve all told me my breasts are normal.

How many other woman in this country have been scared out of their wits by this spate of publicity? I'll bet millons. It's impossible to pick up a newspaper or magazine without reading something about breast cancer that makes every woman think, "I'm next."

Will you please comment and give me peace of mind? I have another appointment with a cancer clinic next week.--Terrified In Tarrytown

Dear T: Cancel that cancer clinic appointment and make one with a psychiatrist. You are obesessed with the fear of breast cancer and it's going to take a few sessions with a good therapist to get you squared away.

For every woman who was scared out of her wits, thousands were moved to get their breasts examined. Out of those thousands, several hundred lives were saved because the cancer was discovered early--and yours might have been one of them. So don't knock it, Lady.

Dear Ann Landers: I couldn't believe your dumb answer to the mother whose husband could never remember to put the toilet lid down. Their five-year-old daughter frequently got up during the night and fell in. The kid got her pajamas wet and woke her mother up at two and three o'clock in the morning to be "changed."

Your advice was, "A five-year-old girl is old enough to learn how to check a toilet seat before she sits down and falls in."

A five-year-old who gets up at two o'clock in the morning is doing pretty well to find the bathroom, much less remember to check the seat. Why didn't you tell the MOTHER to check the seat before she turned in for the night? Apparently her husband is an inconsiderate slob and she has to do the thinking for the whole family.'--Dizzapointed

Dear Diz: You are right. I should have advised the mother to do a final night-check before turning in. Sometimes the solution is so simple it excapes my notice. Thanks for putting me straight.

Dear Ann Landers: I owe you something. I'm going to pay off today. Right now. It's a great big thank-you for changing my life.

A year ago, I was in a marriage that was becoming intolerable, but the thought of divorce was too frightening and painful.

One phrase kept cropping up in your colun and it made sense: "Ask yourself, would my life be better or worse without him?" I couldn't get those words out of my mind. Finally I mustered the courage to file for divorce.

I am now supporting our sons by working two jobs, by my life is ten times better without him. I feel healthier and calmer inside than I have in years. Thank you, Ann Landers, for that wonderful counsel. It was inteneded for others, but it worked for me. Life without depression and anxiety is beautifu..--Sunny

Dear Sunny: I'm glad I helped. Letters such as yours give me reassurance that I am getting through and performing a useful service.

Lu Dye

Cotton Council president accepts new challenge

Mrs. Joe Dye, 308 Kramer Drive, recently has begun her new role in Girl Scouting as president of the Cotton Boll Council Board of Directors. Lu, as she is best known by her friends, meets this new challenge well-prepared as she has been actively involved in the council's scouting program for the past 14 years.

She is particularly known by area adults for her assistance with the day camp program for nine years as well as serving as neighborhood chairman for five years.

However, Girl Scouts know "Miss Lu" for her work with the Junior, Cadette and Senior levels in organized troops, at Cotton Boll Round-Up and at Girl Scout Camp Latonka near Wappapello. She has represented the council traveling with the girls throughout the state and to Washington, D.C., and as a delegate to the 1972 National Girl Scout. Convenion in Dallas, Texas. Other responsible positions have included volunteer trainer and member of the council board and is presently chairman of a task group for the council's wider opportunity, "Missouri Bootheel Kicks".

Although Mrs. Dye works in scouting in some way everyday she still finds time to participate in other community activities. Her willingness to work and leadership abilities are especially well-known to members of the First United Methodist Church. She has served in many capacities there is an is presently the general chairman of the annual church bazaar.

Her interest in today's young people is evidenced in her work with local Parent-Teachers Associations, Citizens Advisory Committee, senior high school class activities and particularly her association in various ways with the Sikeston baseball program for 10 years.

Recognition of her civic involvement was made in 1971 when she was selected as a Woman of Achievement by the Sikeston Business and Professional Women.

Fortunately, Mrs. Dye's family supports her busy life with their cooperation, understanding and active involvement also. Her husband, Joe, is owner of Dye Seed Service in Morehouse. But, he, too can be found at Scout sites and meetings especially when camp equipment is needed -- a family responsibility for 14 years.

A son, Charlie, is associated with his father in the family business and a daughter, Patti, is attending Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Giaardeau. Another member of the family is Lynn Lacefield who is making her home with the Dyes until she completes her schooling in Sikeston.

With their children now grown, the Dyes find more time to enjoy their favorite pastime, fishing — whether it be at Girl Scout camp on Wappapello Lake or at their cabin in Kentucky.

Mrs. Dye and her family exemplify the Scouting program by not only being believers in an organization but "doers" for and with others. She feels participation in Girl Scouting enriches her life and would like to encourage others to join her in active involvement with today's youth.

At Wit's End
By
Erma Bombeck

I don't know if I can put ninto words the condition of my house in February, but I'll try.

If John Wayne and his horse fell down in the living room shag, no one would find them unless one of them gave birth.

"What's a nice girl like me doing in a dump like this?" I asked my husband.

"You weren't getting any younger and you panicked." he said dryly.

"If I could just buy something new it might motivate me to clean," I offered.

"Forget it."

"I know. I could move things around. A lot of people rearrange furniture to relieve the boredom."

"Not the plumbing in the bathroom again," he cautioned.

Yesterday, I ushered him into the living room and said proudly, "Does this look like a different room?"

He gasped, "incredible. What did you do?"

"Well, I saw this article in a magazine that said if you made just two little throw cushions, it would brighten up your entire room."

"I don't believe it,," he said.

"Actually, I used a couple of cushions I had around the house, bought some remnants of bright ribbon and made a basket weave design out of them. The whole thing cost...are you ready? (he nodded numbly.) $3.46."

"It doesn't even look like the same sofa ," he said.

'It isn't," I said. "The ribbon only came in pink which didn't do a thing for our royal blue sofa. I had it covered ."

"And the chairs? You had them covered too?"

"You're teasing. Have those chairs covered?

They weren't the style of chairs you't put with satin ribboned cushions. That's like wearing a WIN button on your original Dior gown. These are new."

He paled.

"Watch the walls," I said. "They may still be a little wet. Actually they'll dry a little darker and will match the new carpet perfectly."

"Who would have thought two little pilolows could have made such a difference,.. he said weakly.

"Now that you mention it," I said cocking my head critically, "the pillows do look a little tacky in this elegant room.

Girl Scout Sunday scheduled March 9

Sikeston Girl Scouts, 616 strong, will join this week in celebrating the 63rd anniversary of the founding of the organization. The Girl Scout organization is an active youth organizatoin and part of the 4,000 membership role of the Cotton Boll Girl Scout Council.

Girl Scout Sunday, March 9, will open the week-long observance in Sikeston. The activities of the Scouts will range in scope from greeting and ushering church members in some churches to presenting the entire church service in others.

"Grow With Us" is the theme of the 1975 observance. The theme applies in meaningful ways to the Girl Scout organization. Not only have they grown in number from 18 to 3,000,000 during the past 63 years but Girl Scout training has grown and changed with the times. During Brownie and Cadette years, the Girl Scouts are trained in dependability, honesty and fairness. They come to know and to care.

With these years of training, the senior years of scouting are devoted to the applicatoin of the lessons they have learned through community service projects. The pharse, "generation gap"., has littl meaning in girl scouting because adults are included in a variety of Girl Scout projects. "Grow With Us" is an invitation from the Girl Scouts to the residents of the area to join with them in improving the quality of life in our community.

Their five-year-old daughter frequently got up during the night and fell in. The kid got her pajamas wet and woke her mother up at two and three o'clock in the morning to be "changed."

Your advice was, "A five-year-old girl is old enough to learn how to check a toilet seat before she sits down and falls in."

A five-year-old who gets up at two o'clock in the morning is doing pretty well to find the bathroom, much less remember to check the seat. Why didn't you tell the MOTHER to check the seat before she turned in for the night? Apparently her husband is an inconsiderate slob and she has to do the thinking for the whole family.'--Dizzapointed

Dear Diz: You are right. I should have advised the mother to do a final night-check before turning in. Sometimes the solution is so simple it excapes my notice. Thanks for putting me straight.

Dear Ann Landers: I owe you something. I'm going to pay off today. Right now. It's a great big thank-you for changing my life.

A year ago, I was in a marriage that was becoming intolerable, but the thought of divorce was too frightening and painful.

One phrase kept cropping up in your colun and it made sense: "Ask yourself, would my life be better or worse without him?" I couldn't get those words out of my mind. Finally I mustered the courage to file for divorce.

I am now supporting our sons by working two jobs, by my life is ten times better without him. I feel healthier and calmer inside than I have in years. Thank you, Ann Landers, for that wonderful counsel. It was inteneded for others, but it worked for me. Life without depression and anxiety is beautifu...--Sunny

Dear Sunny: I'm glad I helped. Letters such as yours give me reassurance that I am getting through and performing a useful service.

Lu Dye

Cotton Council president accepts new challenge

Mrs. Joe Dye, 308 Kramer Drive, recently has begun her new role in Girl Scouting as president of the Cotton Boll Council Board of Directors. Lu, as she is best known by her friends, meets this new challenge well-prepared as she has been actively involved in the council's scouting program for the past 14 years.

She is particularly known by area adults for her assistance with the day camp program for nine years as well as serving as neighborhood chairman for five years.

However, Girl Scouts know "Miss Lu" for her work with the Junior, Cadette and Senior levels in organized troops, at Cotton Boll Round-Up and at Girl Scout Camp Latonka near Wappapello. She has represented the council traveling with the girls throughout the state and to Washington, D.C., and as a delegate to the 1972 National Girl Scout. Convenion in Dallas, Texas. Other responsible positions have included volunteer trainer and member of the council board and is presently chairman of a task group for the council's wider opportunity, "Missouri Bootheel Kicks".

Although Mrs. Dye works in scouting in some way everyday she still finds time to participate in other community activities. Her willingness to work and leadership abilities are especially well-known to members of the First United Methodist Church. She has served in many capacities there is an is presently the general chairman of the annual church bazaar.

Her interest in today's young people is evidenced in her work with local Parent-Teachers Associations, Citizens Advisory Committee, senior high school class activities and particularly her association in various ways with the Sikeston baseball program for 10 years.

Recognition of her civic involvement was made in 1971 when she was selected as a Woman of Achievement by the Sikeston Business and Professional Women.

Fortunately, Mrs. Dye's family supports her busy life with their cooperation, understanding and active involvement also. Her husband, Joe, is owner of Dye Seed Service in Morehouse. But, he, too can be found at Scout sites and meetings especially when camp equipment is needed -- a family responsibility for 14 years.

A son, Charlie, is associated with his father in the family business and a daughter, Patti, is attending Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Giaardeau. Another member of the family is Lynn Lacefield who is making her home with the Dyes until she completes her schooling in Sikeston.

With their children now grown, the Dyes find more time to enjoy their favorite pastime, fishing — whether it be at Girl Scout camp on Wappapello Lake or at their cabin in Kentucky.

Mrs. Dye and her family exemplify the Scouting program by not only being believers in an organization but "doers" for and with others. She feels participation in Girl Scouting enriches her life and would like to encourage others to join her in active involvement with today's youth.

At Wit's End

By

Erma Bombeck

I don't know if I can put ninto words the condition of my house in February, but I'll try.

If John Wayne and his horse fell down in the living room shag, no one would find them unless one of them gave birth.

"What's a nice girl like me doing in a dump like this?" I asked my husband.

"You weren't getting any younger and you panicked." he said dryly.

"If I could just buy something new it might motivate me to clean," I offered.

"Forget it."

"I know. I could move things around. A lot of people rearrange furniture to relieve the boredom."

"Not the plumbing in the bathroom again," he cautioned.

Yesterday, I ushered him into the living room and said proudly, "Does this look like a different room?"

He gasped, "incredible. What did you do?"

"Well, I saw this article in a magazine that said if you made just two little throw cushions, it would brighten up your entire room."

"I don't believe it,." he said.

"Actually, I used a couple of cushions I had around the house, bought some remnants of bright ribbon and made a basket weave design out of them. The whole thing cost...are you ready? (he nodded numbly.) $3.46."

"It doesn't even look like the same sofa ," he said.

'It isn't," I said. "The ribbon only came in pink which didn't do a thing for our royal blue sofa. I had it covered ."

"And the chairs? You had them covered too?"

"You're teasing. Have those chairs covered?

They weren't the style of chairs you't put with satin ribboned cushions. That's like wearing a WIN button on your original Dior gown. These are new."

He paled.

"Watch the walls," I said. "They may still be a little wet. Actually they'll dry a little darker and will match the new carpet perfectly."

"Who would have thought two little pilolows could have made such a difference,.. he said weakly.

"Now that you mention it," I said cocking my head critically, "the pillows do look a little tacky in this elegant room.

Girl Scout Sunday scheduled March 9

Sikeston Girl Scouts, 616 strong, will join this week in celebrating the 63rd anniversary of the founding of the organization. The Girl Scout organization is an active youth organizatoin and part of the 4,000 membership role of the Cotton Boll Girl Scout Council.

Girl Scout Sunday, March 9, will open the week-long observance in Sikeston. The activities of the Scouts will range in scope from greeting and ushering church members in some churches to presenting the entire church service in others.

"Grow With Us" is the theme of the 1975 observance. The theme applies in meaningful ways to the Girl Scout organization. Not only have they grown in number from 18 to 3,000,000 during the past 63 years but Girl Scout training has grown and changed with the times. During Brownie and Cadette years, the Girl Scouts are trained in dependability, honesty and fairness. They come to know and to care.

With these years of training, the senior years of scouting are devoted to the applicatoin of the lessons they have learned through community service projects. The pharse, "generation gap",, has littl meaning in girl scouting because adults are included in a variety of Girl Scout projects. "Grow With Us" is an invitation from the Girl Scouts to the residents of the area to join with them in improving the quality of life in our community.

World news

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (AP) — "She got to see her dream didn't she?" asked Heidi Biggs' mother. "She got to see Hawaii." Heidi, 14, died of cancer Sunday, less than an hour after she was carried on a stretcher from a plane returning her home from Honolulu. Terminally ill with a rare form of the disease, the trip had been her secret wish — the dream of a dying girl from a welfare family. An Associated Press story about her final Christmas touched Russell Penny, a Canadian businessman in Sudbury, Ontario. He helped organize a trust fund for the trip and people from all over the country contributed some $2,400.

NEW YORK (AP) — Consumers who kept a careful eye on which items they purchased found lower prices at the grocery store during February, according to an Associated Press survey which showed sales on protein-rich beef and eggs. Shoppers who wanted nonfood items such as laundry detergent or fabric softener were out of luck. So were some people with a sweet tooth: the price of granulated sugar declined or stayed steady, but the cost of chocolate chip cookies increased. The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and nonfood items, checked the prices on March 1, 1973 in a supermarket in each of 13 cities and has rechecked at the start of each succeeding month.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Rabbi Arthur Hertzberg, the president of the American Jewish Congress, says Arab investments in U.S. companies are good for the economy but steps should be taken to prevent boycotts and discrimination. Speaking Sunday to 400 delegates at the start of a three-day convention of the American Jewish Congress Women's Division, Rabbi Hertzberg suggested creation of a federal agency to compel disclosure of foreign investment in U.S. companies and to report on the extent of foreign ownership of American enterprise.

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — A state-sponsored wolf kill is a sensitive topic for Alaska's conservationist governor, Jay Hammond, a former flying exterminator who hung up his guns years ago. The wolf, an endangered species in some parts of the United States, appears to be thriving in Alaska, but a plan to shoot 100 or more of them to protect a moose herd near Fairbanks has generated a court suit and bitter reaction from environmentalists. A Superior Court judge was expected to rule this week on whether to stop the airplane hunts.

BERLIN (AP) — A West German jetliner took off from Frankfurt airport today with five freed anarchists bound for a foreign destination, but the fate of kidnaped politician Peter Lorenz was not known yet.

The anarchists were freed from prisons in West Germany and West Berlin and given $52,000 ransom and passage out of the country in response to the demands of terrorists who kidnaped Lorenz four days ago.

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Sen. Dewey F. Bartlett says Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger should try to persuade the Soviet Union and China to join the United States in a reduction of military aid to both sides in the Vietnam war to reduce the fighting. Bartlett, an Oklahoma Republican, and seven other members of Congress headed home today after a visit to Saigon and Phnom Penh that President Ford hoped would increase support for his request for $522 million in supplemental military aid for South Vietnam and Cambodia. Bartlett believed every delegation member wanted Kissinger "to play a very big role, to play it right away, with Russia and China in an effort to encourage them to use their influence on the North Vietnamese to reduce the level of war and to reduce the military support to the North Vietnamese as we would reduce it to South Vietnam."

ALGIERS (AP) — Heads of state begin arriving today for the first summit meeting of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries amid signs of continuing dissension. President Carlos Andres Perez tf Venezuela was scheduled to be the first arrival today, and Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi of Iran also was expected. But King Faisal of Saudi Arabia and at least four other chiefs of state were expected to stay away from the 13-nation meeting, which opens Tuesday.

Letters to the editor

BUCHANNAN TO THE RESCUE

Events of February 3, 1975, during the last lunch period at Sikeston Senior High School have caused a major stir among many students and have raised a very important question. To wit, and to put it rather bluntly, has Mr. Buchannan become to big for his own britches?

Since when has it become cause for suspension or even "rolling the dice" to give a very deserving person his birthday spankings! It is a shame and a disgrace when an aspiring young school administrator lets success go to his head and lets petty competition interfere with his duties at such a post. Perhaps the school board should reconsider its move to make this man head of the largest educational and vocational facility between Blytheville and Cape Girardeau. It might be more practical and indeed more beneficial to the students to dismiss Mr. Buchanan and find some one more competent to fill the vacancy. It's not only that we object strongly to his actions and can see no wrong doing on the part of the students, its the "Principal" of the matter. If some drastic changes are not forthcoming many students will be sorry to see Mr. Sherman leave after this school year.

Concerned.

Wardell man hurt in fall

WARDELL — A Wardell man remained hospitalized in Memphis, Tenn., in good condition today as a result of injuries he received Thursday when he reportedly fell about 50 feet to the ground from a grain bin he was climbing.

The accident resulted in injuries to Bobby Johnson, who was rushed to Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital in Hayti byhis employer, Bill Buck, on whose farm the 1:30 p.m. accident occurred.

Johnson, who is believed to be in his early 30s, was reportedly climbing the ladder attached to the large bin when one of the rungs of the ladder came loose, causing him to fall. Johnson reportedly landed on his feet, resulting in compound fractures to both heels. He was transferred to Baptist Hospital in Memphis after undergoing emergency treatment in Hayti.

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi has formally turned Iran into a one-party state with a decree dissolving the country's four political parties and making all his supporters members of a new party. A political source said the 55-year-old ruler had decided the new setup would be "more realistic." The reins of power remain firmly in his hands, where they have been for years, and no change in the governing of the country appeared in prospect.

However, he said that members of the new party "will be able to form different factions."

BUCHANNAN
TO THE RESCUE

Events of February 3, 1975, during the last lunch period at Sikeston Senior High School have caused a major stir among many students and have raised a very important question. To wit, and to put it rather bluntly, has Mr. Buchannan become to big for his own britches?

Since when has it become cause for suspension or even "rolling the dice" to give a very deserving person his birthday spankings! It is a shame and a disgrace when an aspiring young school administrator lets success go to his head and lets petty competition interfere with his duties at such a post. Perhaps the school board should reconsider its move to make this man head of the largest educational and vocational facility between Blytheville and Cape Girardeau. It might be more practical and indeed more beneficial to the students to dismiss Mr. Buchanan and find some one more competent to fill the vacancy. It's not only that we object strongly to his actions and can see no wrong doing on the part of the students, its the "Principal" of the matter. If some drastic changes are not forthcoming many students will be sorry to see Mr. Sherman leave after this school year.

Concerned,
S-B-S-A

Wardell man hurt in fall

WARDELL — A Wardell man remained hospitalized in Memphis, Tenn., in good condition today as a result of injuries he received Thursday when he reportedly fell about 50 feet to the ground from a grain bin he was climbing.

The accident resulted in injuries to Bobby Johnson, who was rushed to Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital in Hayti byhis employer, Bill Buck, on whose farm the 1:30 p.m. accident occurred.

Johnson, who is believed to be in his early 30s, was reportedly climbing the ladder attached to the large bin when one of the rungs of the ladder came loose, causing him to fall. Johnson reportedly landed on his feet, resulting in compound fractures to both heels. He was transferred to Baptist Hospital in Memphis after undergoing emergency treatment in Hayti.

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi has formally turned Iran into a one-party state with a decree dissolving the country's four political parties and making all his supporters members of a new party. A political source said the 55-year-old ruler had decided the new setup would be "more realistic." The reins of power remain firmly in his hands, where they have been for years, and no change in the governing of the country appeared in prospect.

However, he said that members of the new party "will be able to form different factions."

State tournament play tip-off at Cape-SHS

The spacious Sikeston Fieldhouse will be site of the first round state 2A playoff between Hayti, the Hayti regional winner and Lilbourn, the Illmo-Scott City regional winner.

The Hayti Indians of coach Don Tomlinson upset their way into the state tournament on their own court Friday night by whipping Twin Rivers. The TWHS Royals had upset Neelyville earlier in the week. The NHS Tigers were the number one seeded team.

Lilbourn is the first ranked Class 2A team in the state and had little trouble advancing into the state tournament at I-SC. The Panthers are currently riding a 38 game winning streak over two years and are 27-0 this season.

Both the Hayti Indians and the Lilbourn Panthers know each other pretty well as the Panthers just closed their regular season's schedule with a convincing 97-86 thrashing of the Indians on Hayti's home court two weeks ago.

The fieldhouse, called the "mini dome" by some, is a familiar place for both teams as Hayti and Lilbourn have been playing in the Sikeston Bulldog invitational tournament for the past three years. Lilbourn is the defending champion of the tourney and has won the event for the past two years. Hayti has never been able to win it.

The field house has been a bad place for some teams in the area to perform for one reason or another but the Lilbourn Panthers have had very much success on the tartan floors.

The playing of Lilbourn and Hayti contrast somewhat as the Indians like to play a zone defense and slow the tempo down quite abit as coach Tomlinson's Indians lack good speed. The Indians are a big team but do not play the running fastbreak offense. The top men for the Indians are Sylvester James and Alex Clinton.

Everyone in the Sikeston area is familiar with the run, shoot style of the Panthers. Lilbourn is a free lance team that likes to shoot the ball anywhere within 25 feet of the basket. The Panthers are an explosive team as all five starters are good shooters. So far no one has found the proper defense against the Panther Bombers as Frankie Robinson, Ernest McFerron and Detral Treadwell are deadly from outcourt. Inside the Panthers have Archie Boyd, Don Treadwell and the sixth man, Calvin Irons to pick up the loose balls and cram them back in basket and take care of the opponents missed shots on rebounds.

The Panthers have tremendous speed and quickness to take care of their defense when the shooters are cold their defense can pick them up until the bombers get their target in sight as against Notre Dame in the regional final.

Lilbourn is definitely the favorite to whip the Hayti Indians and then advance to the second round play at Houck fieldhouse in Cape Girardeau Wednesday night at 7:30 against the winner of the game between Arcadia Valley and Kinloch of St. Louis being played at Flat River Monday night.

Champs on the defense

The defending class AA and AAA state champs begin defense of their titles tonight while seven other teams join them as repeaters in this seasons state tournament fields after claiming regional championships last week.

Lilbourn's undefeated state championship team opens defense of its coveted crown tonight at the Sikeston high school field house where they'll face the hard charging Hayti Indians in AA play. LHS defeated Nixa 70-64 for the title last season.

Joining the Panthers as repeaters among the sweet 16 field are fourth place finisher Higginsville, quarterfinalest California and St. Joseph LeBlond and first round loser, Kinloch.

Owensville returns as the AAA defending champ, having defeating Montgomery County 55-37 for the top prize. Also repeating among the 16 team field are fourth place finisher Joplin Memorial and first round losers Potosi and Clayton.

First round action is scheduled throughout the state tonight with quarterfinal round action set Wednesday and the seminfinals and finals Friday and Saturday in both classes at the University of Missouri Hearns Multipurpose Building in Columbia.

Robinson gets serious with 'I's'

The nagging kinks. They show up the first week of spring training when arms and legs and backs are forced to forget the leisurely days of winter and think about throwing and hitting baseballs.

The kinks were sunning themselves in placed like Winter Haven, Fla. and Fort Lauderdale. Yet some two thousand miles away, in Tucson, Ariz., Cleveland Indians Manager Frank Robinson promised the fun had just begun for the pulls and pains his players would do anything but enjoy.

"The picnic is over. We go to work Monday," said the rookie manager-designated hitter. "We'll start earning our meal money."

The battery men who toiled the first four days of Robinson's first camp, may already be earning their keep. Pitcher Fritz Peterson admitted he couldn't remember the last time he'd worked as hard as in the camp's opening day last week and Robinson couldn't remember it, either.

The emphasis will be on speed and base stealing when the Tribe opens full-squad workouts officially. After being caught 68 times and robbing just 79 bases, Robinson informed his charges that the Indians will be out to steal "at least 100 bases, but really as many as 150 and to be successful in at least 75 per cent of the attempts."

Former great Maury Wills will be on hand to help Robinson welcome his players and help baseball's first black manager toward the achievement of his goal.

So break out the liniment and the heating pads.

Three major names who already are suffering include Catfish Hunter of the New York Yankees, Carl Yastrzesmki of the Boston Red Sox, and Joe Torre of the New York Mets.

Hunter, the millionaire right-hander, is working to overcome hamstring tightness in his right leg.

"I've had the same problem in past springs," he said, and that shouldn't worry manager Bill Virdon in the least. There hasn't been a pitcher in baseball with a better record over the last four seasons.

State tournament play tip-off at Cape-SHS

The spacious Sikeston Fieldhouse will be site of the first round state 2A playoff between Hayti, the Hayti regional winner and Lilbourn, the Illmo-Scott City regional winner.

The Hayti Indians of coach Don Tomlinson upset their way into the state tournament on their own court Friday night by whipping Twin Rivers. The TWHS Royals had upset Neelyville earlier in the week. The NHS Tigers were the number one seeded team.

Lilbourn is the first ranked Class 2A team in the state and had little trouble advancing into the state tournament at I-SC. The Panthers are currently riding a 38 game winning streak over two years and are 27-0 this season.

Both the Hayti Indians and the Lilbourn Panthers know each other pretty well as the Panthers just closed their regular season's schedule with a convincing 97-86 thrashing of the Indians on Hayti's home court two weeks ago.

The fieldhouse, called the "mini dome" by some, is a familiar place for both teams as Hayti and Lilbourn have been playing in the Sikeston Bulldog invitational tournament for the past three years. Lilbourn is the defending champion of the tourney and has won the event for the past two years. Hayti has never been able to win it.

The field house has been a bad place for some teams in the area to perform for one reason or another but the Lilbourn Panthers have had very much success on the tartan floors.

The playing of Lilbourn and Hayti contrast somewhat as the Indians like to play a zone defense and slow the tempo down quite abit as coach Tomlinson's Indians lack good speed. The Indians are a big team but do not play the running fastbreak offense. The top men for the Indians are Sylvester James and Alex Clinton.

Everyone in the Sikeston area is familiar with the run, shoot style of the Panthers. Lilbourn is a free lance team that likes to shoot the ball anywhere within 25 feet of the basket. The Panthers are an explosive team as all five starters are good shooters. So far no one has found the proper defense against the Panther Bombers as Frankie Robinson, Ernest McFerron and Detral Treadwell are deadly from outcourt. Inside the Panthers have Archie Boyd, Don Treadwell and the sixth man, Calvin Irons to pick up the loose balls and cram them back in basket and take care of the opponents missed shots on rebounds.

The Panthers have tremendous speed and quickness to take care of their defense when the shooters are cold their defense can pick them up until the bombers get their target in sight as against Notre Dame in the regional final.

Lilbourn is definitely the favorite to whip the Hayti Indians and then advance to the second round play at Houck fieldhouse in Cape Girardeau Wednesday night at 7:30 against the winner of the game between Arcadia Valley and Kinloch of St. Louis being played at Flat River Monday night.

Big 8 censures Oklahoma State

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Oklahoma State University has been censured by the Big Eight Conference for recruiting violations.

The announcement was made Saturday by Charles M. Neinas, conference commissioner, at a late morning news conference. At the same time, Neinas announced that Nebraska had been publicly reprimanded for taking two ineligible football players to the Sugar Bowl game in New Orleans, La., last Dec. 31.

The announcements came after meetings Friday of conference faculty representatives, the league's governing body, and athletic directors.

Oklahoma State was not placed on probation but had its grants-in-aid cut from 30 to 27 in 1976 and 1977, and Greg Mohns, a graduate football assistant, will be barred from recruiting and coaching any sport at the school for two years.

The conference also reprimanded Oklahoma State's athletic director, Floyd Gass; Football Coach Jim Stanley and Wrestling Coach Tommy Chesbro for allowing the irregularities to occur and prohibited four Oklahoma residents from becoming involved in the recruitment of athletes during the next two years.

The four are James E. Ryan of Okmulgee, Tom G. Tirey of Oklahoma City, Jim L. Treat of Tulsa and Clarence Wright of Yukon.

Wright, president of the Yukon National Bank, threatened immediately to bring a $10 million suit against the conference and its individual representatives if they fail to meet with him and iron out difficulties.

The conference said Wright was in violation for "arranging a loan for a prospective student-athlete and promising him a job after graduation." The conference did not name the student but he was later identified as freshman Terry Miller.

Wright has acknowledged making a $2,700 loan to Miller.

"I've got 25 notes at my bank from OU students," Wright said. "We're in the business of loaning money. I didn't arrange a loan for Miller. I made it. And he's not going to work for me. He's working for me now. Terry wants to learn banking.

"If they want to sanction a school, that's their right. But they can't sanction me because I don't belong to their organization. This is a violation of civil rights."

At Stillwater, Okla., Dr. Robert Kamm, president of Oklahoma State, said he supported the conference action but added, "Not a single member of our regular football staff was found guilty of anything. The violations were by a graduate assistant and people off campus."

The penalty assessed Oklahoma State was not nearly as severe as that dealt the University of Oklahoma two years ago. The Sooners were placed on probation, barred from playing in postseason football games and denied the right to appear in televised football games for two years.

Neinas said the Oklahoma penalty "resulted in a lot of people—not just the Big Eight—studying to see if such penalties are fair. You can almost raise the economic question but there has to be a question of fairness also. We fully expect there may be some people who will criticize the conference for not imposing sanctions.

"That's not the desire. The desire is to try to develop a new penalty structure hitting the guilty and sparing the innocent and hope by cracking down on those who commit the crime, we can deter others from doing so."

Oklahoma was the No. 1 football team in the country last season, and all Big Eight schools have lost thousands of dollars as a result of the fact the Sooners could not play in bowl games or appear on television.

Nebraska was reprimanded for taking Vince Ferragamo and Ray Phillips to the Sugar Bowl. The conference reprimanded Athletic Director Bob Devaney and Football Coach Tom Osborne, who said the two players were members of the Scout squad, assisted in Nebraska's preparation for the game and that it was the policy to take all members of the Scout squad to bowl games.

Neinas said the conference had appointd a special committee to study the matter of finances and make recommendations at the meeting of faculty representatives at Columbia, Mo., in May. The committee is composed of athletic directors.

"One of the things the directors are going to do is review the so-called non-revenue sports to see if there is some way they can't develop more revenue from them," Neinas explained. "Football and basketball in the Big Eight provide conference institutions about 82 per cent of their income. Football, by far, provides much more than basketball."

The conference granted another year of football eligibility to five players, quarterback Buddy Hardeman and defensive back Mark Luhr of Iowa State, fullback Tom Perry and linebacker Brad Harris of Colorado [illegible] end Tom McDonald of Missouri. The action was taken under the hardship rule. It applies to athlets who are injured before playing in more than two games during the first half of a season.

Kansas tie

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Kansas and Kansas State are still tied for first place.

That's the way the Big Eight Conference basketball race goes into its final week, and both clubs may have more than they can handle in the windup games.

The defending champion Jayhawks must tangle with the tough-at-home Cornhuskers at Nebraska Wednesday night and then wind it all up in Saturday's home test, a regionally televised afternoon affair, against up-and-down Oklahoma.

K-State battles the third-place Tigers at Missouri Wednesday night and is aware that the Bengals haven't lost at home all year. The Wildcats end their regular season Saturday night at home against Oklahoma State. Missouri goes to Colorado the same night.

Kansas and K-State are 9-3 and Missouri, a full game off the pace, 8-4.

The three leaders all got scares Saturday before they barely squeezed out victories. Kansas used Rick Suttle's 30 points and 12 rebounds as the springboard for a 78-76 victory over the stubborn Buffs at Colorado.

VOSS
by Patrick White
Avon 22384-$1.95 - Fiction

VOSS is the second of Nobel Prize-winner Patrick White's books to appear as an Avon paperback. In January, THE EYE OF THE STORM was published by Avon, initiating the program of releasing all of Patrick White's novels under the Avon imprint.

In VOSS, White has fashioned a novel of many depths and surfaces -- a novel that is both a tender story of hidden love and a vivid tale of adventure in the wilds of Australia. Set in the brash, bustling mid-nineteenth century town of Sydney, the story follows the secret inner passion of Voss, explorer and scientist, and Laura, a young orphan girl. Separated, they each carry a visiion of the other that intensifies as their individual hardships multiply -- as Voss is victimized by starvation and betrayal, and as Laura, waiting in Sydney, moves through the weeks and months of separation as though they were the dream and Voss the reality.

"A major work, required for the reader who cherishes character penetration and narrative power in the novel ... A massive and an enduring book." -- Saturday Review

Big 8 censures Oklahoma State

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Oklahoma State University has been censured by the Big Eight Conference for recruiting violations.

The announcement was made Saturday by Charles M. Neinas, conference commissioner, at a late morning news conference. At the same time, Neinas announced that Nebraska had been publicly reprimanded for taking two ineligible football players to the Sugar Bowl game in New Orleans, La., last Dec. 31.

The announcements came after meetings Friday of conference faculty representatives, the league's governing body, and athletic directors.

Oklahoma State was not placed on probation but had its grants-in-aid cut from 30 to 27 in 1976 and 1977, and Greg Mohns, a graduate football assistant, will be barred from recruiting and coaching any sport at the school for two years.

The conference also reprimanded Oklahoma State's athletic director, Floyd Gass; Football Coach Jim Stanley and Wrestling Coach Tommy Chesbro for allowing the irregularities to occur and prohibited four Oklahoma residents from becoming involved in the recruitment of athletes during the next two years.

The four are James E. Ryan of Okmulgee, Tom G. Tirey of Oklahoma City, Jim L. Treat of Tulsa and Clarence Wright of Yukon.

Wright, president of the Yukon National Bank, threatened immediately to bring a $10 million suit against the conference and its individual representatives if they fail to meet with him and iron out difficulties.

The conference said Wright was in violation for "arranging a loan for a prospective student-athlete and promising him a job after graduation." The conference did not name the student but he was later identified as freshman Terry Miller.

Wright has acknowledged making a $2,700 loan to Miller.

"I've got 25 notes at my bank from OU students," Wright said. "We're in the business of loaning money. I didn't arrange a loan for Miller. I made it. And he's not going to work for me. He's working for me now. Terry wants to learn banking.

"If they want to sanction a school, that's their right. But they can't sanction me because I don't belong to their organization. This is a violation of civil rights."

At Stillwater, Okla., Dr. Robert Kamm, president of Oklahoma State, said he supported the conference action but added, "Not a single member of our regular football staff was found guilty of anything. The violations were by a graduate assistant and people off campus."

The penalty assessed Oklahoma State was not nearly as severe as that dealt the University of Oklahoma two years ago. The Sooners were placed on probation, barred from playing in postseason football games and denied the right to appear in televised football games for two years.

Neinas said the Oklahoma penalty "resulted in a lot of people—not just the Big Eight—studying to see if such penalties are fair. You can almost raise the economic question but there has to be a question of fairness also. We fully expect there may be some people who will criticize the conference for not imposing sanctions.

"That's not the desire. The desire is to try to develop a new penalty structure hitting the guilty and sparing the innocent and hope by cracking down on those who commit the crime, we can deter others from doing so."

Oklahoma was the No. 1 football team in the country last season, and all Big Eight schools have lost thousands of dollars as a result of the fact the Sooners could not play in bowl games or appear on television.

Nebraska was reprimanded for taking Vince Ferragamo and Ray Phillips to the Sugar Bowl. The conference reprimanded Athletic Director Bob Devaney and Football Coach Tom Osborne, who said the two players were members of the Scout squad, assisted in Nebraska's preparation for the game and that it was the policy to take all members of the Scout squad to bowl games.

Neinas said the conference had appointd a special committee to study the matter of finances and make recommendations at the meeting of faculty representatives at Columbia, Mo., in May. The committee is composed of athletic directors.

"One of the things the directors are going to do is review the so-called non-revenue sports to see if there is some way they can't develop more revenue from them," Neinas explained. "Football and basketball in the Big Eight provide conference institutions about 82 per cent of their income. Football, by far, provides much more than basketball."

The conference granted another year of football eligibility to five players, quarterback Buddy Hardeman and defensive back Mark Luhr of Iowa State, fullback Tom Perry and linebacker Brad Harris of Colorado and end Tom McDonald of Missouri. The action was taken under the hardship rule. It applies to athlets who are injured before playing in more than two games during the first half of a season.

Church League champions, Catholic's, lost only one game all season during league play and claimed the league title over the weekend at the SHS field house. Shown, kneeling from left: Chris Alberts, Frank Marshal, Scott Scherer, Jim Kappler and Bill Hampton. Standing from left: Coach Chuck Leible, Tom Luber, Jerry Dement, Bob Marshall Dennis Cobb, Paul Sherman and Dave Herrick.

Kansas tie

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Kansas and Kansas State are still tied for first place.

That's the way the Big Eight Conference basketball race goes into its final week, and both clubs may have more than they can handle in the windup games.

The defending champion Jayhawks must tangle with the tough-at-home Cornhuskers at Nebraska Wednesday night and then wind it all up in Saturday's home test, a regionally televised afternoon affair, against up-and-down Oklahoma.

K-State battles the third-place Tigers at Missouri Wednesday night and is aware that the Bengals haven't lost at home all year. The Wildcats end their regular season Saturday night at home against Oklahoma State. Missouri goes to Colorado the same night.

Kansas and K-State are 9-3 and Missouri, a full game off the pace, 8-4.

The three leaders all got scares Saturday before they barely squeezed out victories. Kansas used Rick Suttle's 30 points and 12 rebounds as the springboard for a 78-76 victory over the stubborn Buffs at Colorado.

Today in U.S. history

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, March 3, the 62nd day of 1975. There are 303 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

In 1791, the District of Columbia was organized as the seat of the American government.

On this date —

In 1845, Florida became the 27th American state.

In 1847, the inventor of the telephone, Alexander Graham Bell, was born in Edinburgh, Scotland.

In 1849, Congress established the U.S. Department of the Interior.

In 1861, the Russian government proclaimed emancipation of the serfs.

In 1944, during World War II, U.S. fighter planes made their first appearance over Berlin.

In 1967, Poland refused to issue a visa to former U.S. Vice President Richard Nixon to make a private visit to Warsaw.

Ten years ago: The House of Representatives passed and sent to the White House a bill to provide more than $1 billion for aid to Appalachia.

Five years ago: White demonstrators were dispersed with tear gas in Lamar, S. C., after they overturned two empty school buses near two recently integrated schools.

One year ago: A Turkish jetliner carried 345 persons to their deaths when it crashed in a forest near Paris.

Today's birthdays: Ret. Gen. Alfred Gruenther is 76. Ret. Gen. Matthew Ridgeway is 80.

People ask you for criticism, but they only want praise — W. Somerset Maugham, British writer, 1874-1965.

Today in U.S. history

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, March 3, the 62nd day of 1975. There are 303 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

In 1791, the District of Columbia was organized as the seat of the American government.

On this date —

In 1845, Florida became the 27th American state.

In 1847, the inventor of the telephone, Alexander Graham Bell, was born in Edinburgh, Scotland.

In 1849, Congress established the U.S. Department of the Interior.

In 1861, the Russian government proclaimed emancipation of the serfs.

In 1944, during World War II, U.S. fighter planes made their first appearance over Berlin.

In 1967, Poland refused to issue a visa to former U.S. Vice President Richard Nixon to make a private visit to Warsaw.

Ten years ago: The House of Representatives passed and sent to the White House a bill to provide more than $1 billion for aid to Appalachia.

Five years ago: White demonstrators were dispersed with tear gas in Lamar, S. C., after they overturned two empty school buses near two recently integrated schools.

One year ago: A Turkish jetliner carried 345 persons to their deaths when it crashed in a forest near Paris.

Today's birthdays: Ret. Gen. Alfred Gruenther is 76. Ret. Gen. Matthew Ridgeway is 80.

People ask you for criticism, but they only want praise — W. Somerset Maugham, British writer, 1874-1965.

Steve Lingle

Lingle named scholar

EAST PRAIRIE--Steve Lingle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lingle, has been named a University of Missouri curators freshman scholar, according to Miss Mary Moore, high school counselor.

The award is based on academic achievement during the three years of high school work already completed. The recipient may choose to attend any one of the university's four campuses at Columbia, Kansas City, Rolla or St. Louis, with the full amount of the incidental fee for the school year being waived during the freshman year.

The award may also be renewed for additional undergraduate years if the scholar's acaedemic grade point average remains in the top five per cent of his class, when enrolled full time.

Lingle was nominated for the award by East Prairie High School, based on ranking the topranking in the top three per cent of his class at the end of his sixth semester of high school work and scoring in the 90th percentile or above on one of the several nationally recognized college aptitude tests.

Each high school in Missouri is allowed to nominate one scholar from each 100 or fraction of 100 graduating seniors for the current school year.

The Curators Scholars Program is designed to recognize scholarly achievement being accomplished at Missouri High schools and to encourage these persons to continue their education at the university level.

Lingle is ranked second in the senior class, is president of the area 12 and the local chapter of Future Farmers of America, a member of National Honor Society, Youth for Community Betterment, Journeyman's Club. Photography Club and the Dogwood United Methodist Church.

Landowners to consider district

CHARLESTON — A meeting of the owners of land in the Mississippi County portion of the spillway Wednesday may determine whether a new drainage district will be formed and a $5 million watershead project begun in the floodway area.

Glenn Ault Jr., a member of the Mississippi County Soil and Water District board who has been coordinating the early planning on the watershed project, said Monday a main objective of the meeting will be to get landowners' signatures on petitions for the formation of a new Circuit Court drainage district.

Glenn Ault Jr. a member of the Mississippi County Soil and Water District board who has been coordinating the early planning on the watershed project, said Monday a main objective of the meeting will be to get landowners' signatures on petitions for the formation of a new Circuit Court drainage district.

Ault said the formation of such a district would replace a large number of present County Court districts with a single large district, controlled by a board of supervisors elected on the basis of one vote per acre of land.

He said one alternative would be the formation of a single County Court district, but added tha such a solution would have a great many legal problems.

Another alternative would be to create a watershed district under control of the Mississippi County Soil and Water District board. This, too, would create some serious problems, Ault said.

The problems will be explained at the meeting with the county's attorneys available to answer questoins.

Also present at the meeting will be members of an engineering firm that has experience with watershed projects in other locations; members of the County Court; and members of the boards of Levee District 3, St. John's Levee and Drainage District and the county Soil and Water District.

Staff members from the SCS state office in Columbia will also be on hand, Ault said.

"Landowners must make up their minds which new kind of district they want," Ault said, "or the drainage districts can be left as they are at present — but that is not a practical solution if we want the watershed project."

The watershed project, as proposed by the Soil Conservation Service, is designed to tie in with a proposed Corps of Engineers construction project and pumping station in the south end of the county, Ault explained.

Ault said the county SWCD board plans to ask for a straw vote at Wednesday's meeting, which will begin at 7 p.m. in the Circuit Court room of the Courthouse in Charleston. The vote would be to determine what kind of plan the majority of landowners want.

Ault said there are some 99,500 acres of land in the proposed watershed district. As soon as signatures are obtained representing the required percentage of the total acreage, the petitions could be submitted to the Circuit Court to create a new drainage district.

But Ault said the decision is up to the area's landowners, and he urged that they attend next week's meeting.

Other members of the county SWCD board are Kenneth Heath, David Brewer and Orval Shew.

Changes announced in food stamp program

JEFFERSON CITY — Ewing Gourley, director of the Missouri Division of Family Services, has announced changes in the state's food stamp program, effective March 1.

As of that date, Gourley said, the United States Department of Agriculture replaced the present 50-cent, $2 and $5 food stamp coupons with coupons having face value of $2, $7, $40, $50 and $65.

"By using the larger denominatons of stamps," Gourley said, "fewer stamps and books will be needed to fill each recipient's allotment. This will also lower producton and shipping costs."

Gourley said the new coupons had a more sophisticated design which would deter counterfeiting.

Grocers will be issued $1 coupons to give as change to food stamp customers. Change of 99 cents or less will be in the form of credit slips.

Gourley said older style coupons legally obtained before March 1 may be used to buy food any time before July 1. They will become void on that date.

Gourley said that approximately 92,000 households in Missouri are currently participating in this program. In December, these households paid $4,017,936 to receive food stamp coupons valued at $10,445,995.

The food stamp program was established by Congress to enable low income families to improve their diets. Eligible households exchange ther own food money for food stamp coupons having a greater face value. The "coupons" are then used like money to buy food at participating grocers.They may not be used to obtain nonfood items.

Gourley urges persons who wish to apply for food stamps to contact their local Family Services office.

These offices are open week days from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Bell City student selected curators freshman scholar

BELL CITY — Randy Long, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Long of Bloomfield Route One, has been named a University of Missouri curators freshman scholar, according to Derenda Holland, Bell City High School counselor.

Long, a senior, was nominated for the award by the high school, based on the following criteria: the nominee ranked in the top three per cent of his class at the end of the sixth semester of high school work, and he scored in the 90th percentile or above on one of the several nationally recognized college aptitude tests.

Each high school in Missouri is allowed to nominate one scholar from each 100 or fraction of 100 graduating seniors for the current school year.

The curators scholars program is designed to recognize scholarly achievement being accomplished at Missouri high schools and to encourage these persons to continue their education at the university level.

Randy Long

The award is based entirely upon academic achievement during the three years of high school work already completed.

The recipient may choose to attend any one of the university's four campuses — Columbia, Kansas City, Rolla or St. Louis -- with the full amount of the incidental fee for the school year being waived during the freshman year.

The award may also be renewed for additoinal undergraduate years if the scholar's academic grade-point average remains in the top five per cent of this class, when enrolled full-time.

School lunch proposal coul mean student drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration's proposal to eliminate school lunch subsidies for all but the neediest children could mean a 24 per cent drop in the number of students buying lunch at school, government experts say.

The plan to trim $600 million from federal child nutrition spending next year also could mean that children from more affluent families would have to pay an additional $1.05 a week to eat at schools.

Federal subsidies equal to 21 cents a lunch now benefit all students and are part of a federal program that will cost more than $1.9 billion this year. The program is expected to cost nearly $2.3 billion next year, according to the Agriculture Department.

The existing subsidies consist of a half dozen child nutrition programs which carry specific federal payment formulas.

In a move to save money, the Ford administration is urging that this system be discarded and a system of "block grants" be substituted. These grants would be offered to the states to continue school lunch aid for needy children, which are defined as members of families falling below federal poverty levels.

If the states choose to continue subsidizing meals for non-needy children, they would have to provide the money from other sources, according to Assistant Agriculture Secretary Richard E. Feltner.

If Congress approves the plan and if the states do not make up for the reduced federal share, school lunch enrollments could drop 24 per cent to around 19 million next year from more than 25 million children now, according to Agriculture Department studies.

East Prairie district maintains AAA rating

EAST PRAIRIE--The East Prairie R-2 School District maintained its AAA rating for the 1974-75 school year following the annual official visit to the school on Jan. 28 by Huey D. Cook of Jefferson City, state supervisor of instruction.

Several advisements indicated standards which are not being fully met for the rating of the district. These items should be corrected before the next school years opens unless a previous agreement for planned improvement has been made with the supervisor.

The district was advised that an assistant to the susuperintendent should be provided.

Other advisements included the following:

Twenty-five per cent of the elementary teachers and supervisors should have, as a minimum, 30 semester hours of appropriate graduate credit.

Special instruction is being provided by appropriately certified personnel to serve the needs of handicapped students, as required by law, except in the area of specific learning disabilities.

A full-time librarian should be provided for the juniuor high school.

Additional curricular offerings should be provided , such as one unit of physics.

The total units of approved high school credit in the district is 93.

What's the law?

The case of the masculine hostess

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Knuckles wanted to become a flight cabin attendant on a commercial airliner, he couldn't pass the physical. The airline has a policy of only hiring women for the job and, since he couldn't be a hostess with the mostest, he was turned down.

Hustling off to court, Knuckles charged the airline with discrimination under the Civil Right Act.

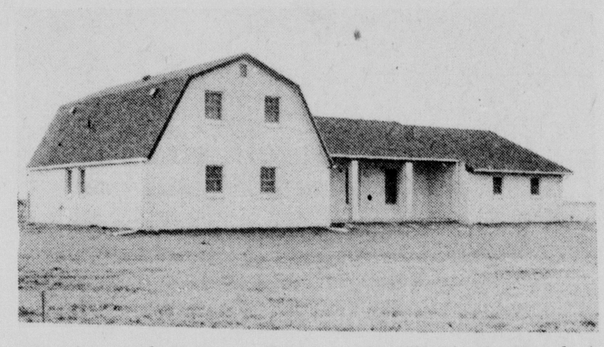
"When a guy goes out looking for a job," he argued, "he can't be discriminated against because of his sex without good reason. And there's no good reason I can't be a flight cabin attendant. The fact is, muscles and all, I can do the job as well as any female and probably better."

"What he can't do," was the answer, "is to exude the warmth and comfort that a hostess can provide when a passenger wants to be tucked in or gets a little shaky because of a rough flight. The job requires a little female tenderness, which only a gal can supply."

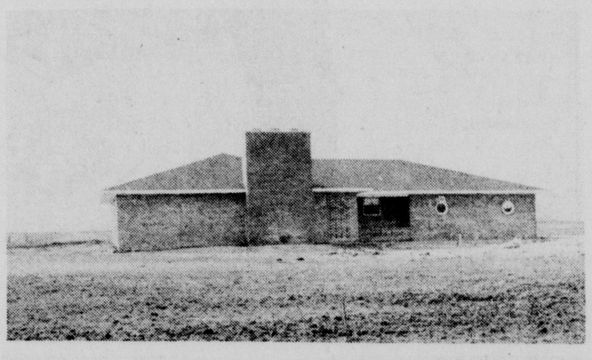
IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you bar masculine Kuckles from being a hostess?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that, while it may be important to have a pleasant environment enhanced by the ovious cosmetic effect that female stewardesses can provide, the primary function of an airline is to transport passengers safely from one point to another. And unless it can be shown that women possess some special ability in performing as cabin attendants, not possessed by men, men may not be discriminated against in favor of women when applying for such jobs. As for the preferences of the passengers, concluded the judge, it is of little importance.

The fireplace on the red-veriagated brick home of Dorene and Robert Henley is the focal point of the outside and inside on the house on Sherrie Street in Westview Addition near Sikeston. The walls are painted white for ease in decorating and plush carpeting is throughout the seven-room house. Robert Henley, 34, also shares the house built by Ziegenhorn Construction Co.



Martha and Tommy Fraser, 23 Elizabeth Road, in Westview Addition near Sikeston and sons, David, 14, and Dennis, 12, had never done any building when they decided to build their own home. They are nearly completed with the nine-room, five-bedroom house which has four bathrooms and an exterior of white brick. Unusual qualities in the house include use of textured wallpaper and a brick wall in the family room which measures 36 feet across and contains the fireplace. The fireplace hearth is three-feet wide and one and one-half feet high. Fraser is employed by the Missouri Highway Department and Mrs. Fraser is an office manager for Hedrick Concrete Products Corp.



The wide fireplace and port-hole windows give a distinctive look to the R. L. Keene home on Sikeston Route One in the Westview Addition. The brick house has white trim on the exterior and features a large tabletop bar in the kitchen-den combination. The 10-foot wide brick fireplace is in the living room which also features dark green colors. Other special features of the house are pecan paneling in the den and a marble-topped vanity in one of the three baths. Keene has one son, Mark, 14, and is the manager of the National Finance Co.

4th grade wins drive

Winners of the membership drive conducted by the Southeast Missouri Elementary School Parent -Teacher Association were announced at Tuesday night's meeting.

Norman Lambert, president, announced that Mrs. Nicki Taylor's forurth grade class won first place in the drive, while Mrs. Athemea Taylor's fifth grade class won second place.

Guest speaker for the evening was Dr. Thomas Robinson, who discussed child abuse.

In other business, Sally Frreeman and Mrs. Eula Martindale volunteered to serve on the nominating committee with Joann Houseman, who serves as chairman.

A room count was taken and first place was awarded to Mrs. Mary Murphy's first grade class. Second place was earned by Mrs. Darlene Sander's third class.

Principal Allen Mays, extended a special welcome to the fathers in connection with the Fathers Night program.

Landowners to consider district

CHARLESTON — A meeting of the owners of land in the Mississippi County portion of the spillway Wednesday may determine whether a new drainage district will be formed and a $5 million watershead project begun in the floodway area.

Glenn Ault Jr., a member of the Mississippi County Soil and Water District board who has been coordinating the early planning on the watershed project, said Monday a main objective of the meeting will be to get landowners' signatures on petitions for the formation of a new Circuit Court drainage district.

Glenn Ault Jr. a member of the Mississippi County Soil and Water District board who has been coordinating the early planning on the watershed project, said Monday a main objective of the meeting will be to get landowners' signatures on petitions for the formation of a new Circuit Court drainage district.

Ault said the formation of such a district would replace a large number of present County Court districts with a single large district, controlled by a board of supervisors elected on the basis of one vote per acre of land.

He said one alternative would be the formation of a single County Court district, but added tha such a solution would have a great many legal problems.

Another alternative would be to create a watershed district under control of the Mississippi County Soil and Water District board. This, too, would create some serious problems, Ault said.

The problems will be explained at the meeting with the county's attorneys available to answer questoins.

Also present at the meeting will be members of an engineering firm that has experience with watershed projects in other locations; members of the County Court; and members of the boards of Levee District 3, St. John's Levee and Drainage District and the county Soil and Water District.

Staff members from the SCS state office in Columbia will also be on hand, Ault said.

"Landowners must make up their minds which new kind of district they want," Ault said, "or the drainage districts can be left as they are at present — but that is not a practical solution if we want the watershed project."

The watershed project, as proposed by the Soil Conservation Service, is designed to tie in with a proposed Corps of Engineers construction project and pumping station in the south end of the county, Ault explained.

Ault said the county SWCD board plans to ask for a straw vote at Wednesday's meeting, which will begin at 7 p.m. in the Circuit Court room of the Courthouse in Charleston. The vote would be to determine what kind of plan the majority of landowners want.

Ault said there are some 99,500 acres of land in the proposed watershed district. As soon as signatures are obtained representing the required percentage of the total acreage, the petitions could be submitted to the Circuit Court to create a new drainage district.

But Ault said the decision is up to the area's landowners, and he urged that they attend next week's meeting.

Other members of the county SWCD board are Kenneth Heath, David Brewer and Orval Shew.

Changes announced in food stamp program

JEFFERSON CITY — Ewing Gourley, director of the Missouri Division of Family Services, has announced changes in the state's food stamp program, effective March 1.

As of that date, Gourley said, the United States Department of Agriculture replaced the present 50-cent, $2 and $5 food stamp coupons with coupons having face value of $2, $7, $40, $50 and $65.

"By using the larger denominatons of stamps," Gourley said, "fewer stamps and books will be needed to fill each recipient's allotment. This will also lower producton and shipping costs."

Gourley said the new coupons had a more sophisticated design which would deter counterfeiting.

Grocers will be issued $1 coupons to give as change to food stamp customers. Change of 99 cents or less will be in the form of credit slips.

Gourley said older style coupons legally obtained before March 1 may be used to buy food any time before July 1. They will become void on that date.

Gourley said that approximately 92,000 households in Missouri are currently participating in this program. In December, these households paid $4,017,936 to receive food stamp coupons valued at $10,445,995.

The food stamp program was established by Congress to enable low income families to improve their diets. Eligible households exchange ther own food money for food stamp coupons having a greater face value. The "coupons" are then used like money to buy food at participating grocers.They may not be used to obtain nonfood items.

Gourley urges persons who wish to apply for food stamps to contact their local Family Services office.

These offices are open week days from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Bell City student selected curators freshman scholar

BELL CITY — Randy Long, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Long of Bloomfield Route One, has been named a University of Missouri curators freshman scholar, according to Derenda Holland, Bell City High School counselor.

Long, a senior, was nominated for the award by the high school, based on the following criteria: the nominee ranked in the top three per cent of his class at the end of the sixth semester of high school work, and he scored in the 90th percentile or above on one of the several nationally recognized college aptitude tests.

Each high school in Missouri is allowed to nominate one scholar from each 100 or fraction of 100 graduating seniors for the current school year.

The curators scholars program is designed to recognize scholarly achievement being accomplished at Missouri high schools and to encourage these persons to continue their education at the university level.

Randy Long

The award is based entirely upon academic achievement during the three years of high school work already completed.

The recipient may choose to attend any one of the university's four campuses — Columbia, Kansas City, Rolla or St. Louis -- with the full amount of the incidental fee for the school year being waived during the freshman year.

The award may also be renewed for additoinal undergraduate years if the scholar's academic grade-point average remains in the top five per cent of this class, when enrolled full-time.

School lunch proposal coul mean student drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration's proposal to eliminate school lunch subsidies for all but the neediest children could mean a 24 per cent drop in the number of students buying lunch at school, government experts say.

The plan to trim $600 million from federal child nutrition spending next year also could mean that children from more affluent families would have to pay an additional $1.05 a week to eat at schools.

Federal subsidies equal to 21 cents a lunch now benefit all students and are part of a federal program that will cost more than $1.9 billion this year. The program is expected to cost nearly $2.3 billion next year, according to the Agriculture Department.

The existing subsidies consist of a half dozen child nutrition programs which carry specific federal payment formulas.

In a move to save money, the Ford administration is urging that this system be discarded and a system of "block grants" be substituted. These grants would be offered to the states to continue school lunch aid for needy children, which are defined as members of families falling below federal poverty levels.

If the states choose to continue subsidizing meals for non-needy children, they would have to provide the money from other sources, according to Assistant Agriculture Secretary Richard E. Feltner.

If Congress approves the plan and if the states do not make up for the reduced federal share, school lunch enrollments could drop 24 per cent to around 19 million next year from more than 25 million children now, according to Agriculture Department studies.

East Prairie district maintains AAA rating

EAST PRAIRIE–The East Prairie R-2 School District maintained its AAA rating for the 1974-75 school year following the annual official visit to the school on Jan. 28 by Huey D. Cook of Jefferson City, state supervisor of instruction.

Several advisements indicated standards which are not being fully met for the rating of the district. These items should be corrected before the next school years opens unless a previous agreement for planned improvement has been made with the supervisor.

The district was advised that an assistant to the susuperintendent should be provided.

Other advisements included the following: Twenty-five per cent of the elementary teachers and supervisors should have, as a minimum, 30 semester hours of appropriate graduate credit.

Special instruction is being provided by appropriately certified personnel to serve the needs of handicapped students, as required by law, except in the area of specific learning disabilities.

A full-time librarian should be provided for the juniuor high school.

Additional curricular offerings should be provided , such as one unit of physics.

The total units of approved high school credit in the district is 93.

The case of the masculine hostess

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Knuckles wanted to become a flight cabin attendant on a commercial airliner, he couldn't pass the physical. The airline has a policy of only hiring women for the job and, since he couldn't be a hostess with the mostest, he was turned down.

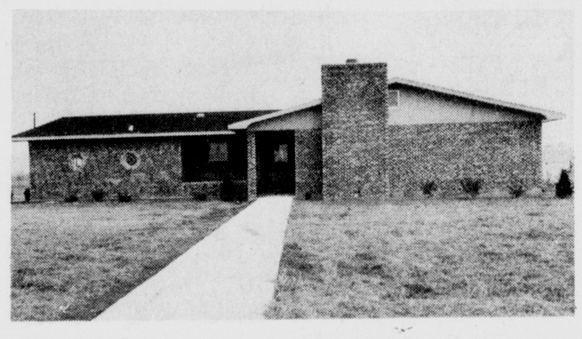
Hustling off to court, Knuckles charged the airline with discrimination under the Civil Right Act.

"When a guy goes out looking for a job," he argued, "he can't be discriminated against because of his sex without good reason. And there's no good reason I can't be a flight cabin attendant. The fact is, muscles and all, I can do the job as well as any female and probably better."

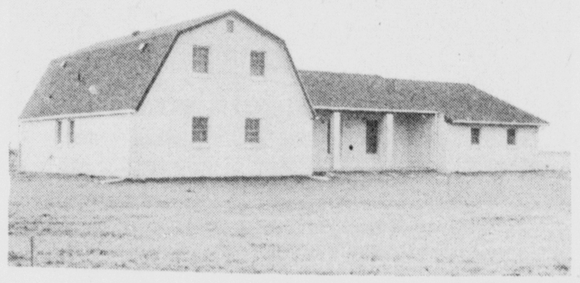
"What he can't do," was the answer, "is to exude the warmth and comfort that a hostess can provide when a passenger wants to be tucked in or gets a little shaky because of a rough flight. The job requires a little female tenderness, which only a gal can supply."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you bar masculine Kuckles from being a hostess?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that, while it may be important to have a pleasant environment enhanced by the ovious cosmetic effect that female stewardesses can provide, the primary function of an airline is to transport passengers safely from one point to another. And unless it can be shown that women possess some special ability in performing as cabin attendants, not possessed by men, men may not be discriminated against in favor of women when applying for such jobs. As for the preferences of the passengers, concluded the judge, it is of little importance.



The fireplace on the red-veriagated brick home of Dorene and Robert Henley is the focal point of the outside and inside on the house on Sherrie Street in Westview Addition near Sikeston. The walls are painted white for ease in decorating and plush carpeting is throughout the seven-room house. Robert Henley, 34, also shares the house built by Ziegenhorn Construction Co.



Martha and Tommy Fraser, 23 Elizabeth Road, in Westview Addition near Sikeston and sons, David, 14, and Dennis, 12, had never done any building when they decided to build their own home. They are nearly completed with the nine-room, five-bedroom house which has four bathrooms and an exterior of white brick. Unusual qualities in the house include use of textured wallpaper and a brick wall in the family room which measures 36 feet across and contains the fireplace. The fireplace hearth is three-feet wide and one and one-half feet high. Fraser is employed by the Missouri Highway Department and Mrs. Fraser is an office manager for Hedrick Concrete Products Corp.

The wide fireplace and port-hole windows give a distinctive look to the R. L. Keene home on Sikeston Route One in the Westview Addition. The brick house has white trim on the exterior and features a large tabletop bar in the kitchen-den combination. The 10-foot wide brick fireplace is in the living room which also features dark green colors. Other special features of the house are pecan paneling in the den and a marble-topped vanity in one of the three baths. Keene has one son, Mark, 14, and is the manager of the National Finance Co.

The WEEDERS GUIDE

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

They call it The Vegetable Factory. It's a low-cost, energy-saving greenhouse recently introduced in New York. Two models were shown, a lean-to five and one-half feet wide, 12 feet long and eight feet high, and a free-standing house eight feet wide, 12 feet long and seven feet, four inches tall in the center, both with six-foot eaves.

The secret to the low cost $629 and $889 respectively according to inventor Fred Schwartz (there are other sizes) is the patented "twin-pane" walls made of acrylic plastic reinforced fiber glass for shatterproof construction.

Schwartz contends that the thermal-walled structure is the first greenhouse designed to grow vegetables economically all year.

He said a laboratory report indicated that about 650 pounds of fresh vegetables could be grown annually in the free-standing model at an average cost of 19 cents a pound, including all operating costs. That, he figures, is enough produce to supply the average family of four with all the fresh vegetables needed for an entire year.

Because of the thermal walls, he said, only minimal heating is required in colder climates, with no special wiring. The laboratory report, he continued, said the total estimated operating costs for the free-standing model came to only $136 for the year. He said that was almost a single month's electricity bill for his old glass greenhouse last year. In addition, he lost several vegetable crops because of broken glass panels. That's when he "began thinking about developing a more economical greenhouse."

A Vegetable Factory, he explained, can be put down on any level surface. It is shipped ready for assembly with simple instructions. He figured it would take two persons four to six hours to assemble it.

Accessories also are available: a portable heater for $25 and a shutter-mounted air circulation fan for $60. No shading compounds are needed to reduce excessive sunlight. The light is diffused by the thermal walls, eliminating hot spots and shadows. The six-foot eaves permit the gardener to stand comfortably while working. If you buy a Vegetable Factory of his double-walled greenhouses.

The WEEDERS GUIDE

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

They call it The Vegetable Factory. It's a low-cost, energy-saving greenhouse recently introduced in New York. Two models were shown, a lean-to five and one-half feet wide, 12 feet long and eight feet high, and a free-standing house eight feet wide, 12 feet long and seven feet, four inches tall in the center, both with six-foot eaves.

The secret to the low cost $629 and $889 respectively according to inventor Fred Schwartz (there are other sizes) is the patented "twin-pane" walls made of acrylic plastic reinforced fiber glass for shatterproof construction.

Schwartz contends that the thermal-walled structure is the first greenhouse designed to grow vegetables economically all year.

He said a laboratory report indicated that about 650 pounds of fresh vegetables could be grown annually in the free-standing model at an average cost of 19 cents a pound, including all operating costs. That, he figures, is enough produce to supply the average family of four with all the fresh vegetables needed for an entire year.

Because of the thermal walls, he said, only minimal heating is required in colder climates, with no special wiring. The laboratory report, he continued, said the total estimated operating costs for the free-standing model came to only $136 for the year. He said that was almost a single month's electricity bill for his old glass greenhouse last year. In addition, he lost several vegetable crops because of broken glass panels. That's when he "began thinking about developing a more economical greenhouse."

A Vegetable Factory, he explained, can be put down on any level surface. It is shipped ready for assembly with simple instructions. He figured it would take two persons four to six hours to assemble it.

Accessories also are available: a portable heater for $25 and a shutter-mounted air circulation fan for $60. No shading compounds are needed to reduce excessive sunlight. The light is diffused by the thermal walls, eliminating hot spots and shadows. The six-foot eaves permit the gardener to stand comfortably while working. If you buy a Vegetable Factory you get a Growing Manual with easy directions for year-round operation.

The structure could also be used as a patio house, garden or hobby room, or children's playhouse. You could put it on a rooftop or apartment terrace.

Schwartz said tomatoes cost about 6 cents a pound to grow, lettuce 16 cents a pound and cucumbers about 5½ cents in one of his double-walled greenhouses.

New jobs offset rising unemployment

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Attempts to generate new jobs in Missouri apparently have partially offset soaring unemployment in the state, statistics released today by the Division of Commerce and Industrial Development showed.

Nearly 11,200 new jobs, resulting from the addtion of 103 new industries and expansion of 101 others, were generated during 1974, the figures showed. The total was down from the 1973 record of more than 14,000 new jobs.

Unemployment in the state in January, however, hit 7.7 per cent with more than 150,000 persons out of work, one of the highest jobless rates in the state's history but still below the comparable national level of 9 per cent.

"This can be attributed in part to the number of new jobs created by last year's new and expanding industries," claimed Guy Jaffe, division director.

Establishment of new plants was down 42 per cent from the year before while expansion was off 38 per cent, the figures showed. Investment however, was a record $348 million, apparently most of the increase due to rising costs.

Bakery burns in Charleston

CHARLESTON — The Charleston Bakery, 106 E. Market St., was extensively damaged by fire about 10:30 a.m. Sunday.

The customer area at the front of the shop received the heaviest damage. The fire began in that area and is believed to have started in electrical equipment.

Marvin Ruff is manager and operator of the bakery and the building is owned by Thomas Bird.

5:02 p.m. Sunday the fire department was called to extinguish two grass fires, one at Marshall and Green streets and the other at Lee and Marshall streets.

At 2:30 p.m. Saturday firemen were called to an apartment house at 103 S. Sixth St. Debbie Kellick was moving into an apartment in the building owned by Pete Bingham. A box springs caught on fire after it was inadvertantly laid on a floor furnace.

The two positions to be filled are for three-year terms.

Dudley girl to compete

DUDLEY — Cindy Culbertson, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Culbertson of rural Dudley and a student at Dexter High School has been selected to compete in the 1975 Miss Missouri Teenage pageant scheduled May 30 at Stephens College in Columbia.

The winner of the state event will compete in the Miss America Teenage pageant in Atlanta, Ga.

Miss Culberson is sponsored by Dexter National Bankl.

4 candidates for C-7 posts

NEW HAMBURG — Four persons have filed for two positions to be filled on the Kelso-New Hamburg C-7 School District board of education in the April 1 school election. The filing deadline was Friday.

The candidates who filed are Charles P. Hess, Joseph F. Westrich, Roger D. Record and Melvin Schott.

Thw two incumbents, James P. Reinabel and Alfred Menz, did not file for re-election.

Both positions will be for two-year terms.

No weekend deaths reported by patrol

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—No one died on Missouri highways over the weekend, the first ime that has happened in 13 months, according to the state Highway Patrol.

The last time there was no Missouri traffic deaths was Saturday and Sunday that saw Feb. 2-3, 1974, but fatality totals through midnight Sunday for this year remain above those for the same period in 1974.

Only 98 persons died through March 2, 1974, compared to 111 so far this year, but patrol Supt. Sam S. Smith said this year's total has been running about 25 per cent ahead of a year ago before the weekend.

"Because of the excellent weekend we were able to reduce the difference somewhat. We could use a couple more (weekends) like that," he said. The total now is about 13 per cent higher than last year.

"It's awfully hard to put your finger on why we have accidents," Smith added in explaining that there was no real reason that could be cited for the weekend development.

But because of the poor start this year, he said, "I think we'll be most fortunate if we have the same record this year as last year."

Traffic deaths were down more than 400 last year over 1973, primarily due to the reduced 55 mile an hour speed limit, according to officials.

tion and personnel training.

The division would conduct annual inspections of all local facilities.

The constitutional amendments, both sponsored by Sen. Jack Gant, D-Independence, would boost the allowable tax levy set by school districts without a vote of the people from $1.25 to $2 and permit such districts to sell bonds upon a 60 per cent vote instead of a two-thirds vote.

The House has on its informal schedule an increase in unemployment benefits that also boosts the maximum payment to $95 a week. The Senate has approved a raise with the new ceiling at $85 a week.

VA Officer available

NEW MADRID — Bill Haynes, Veterans Administration service officer, has announced that he is available for consultation each Friday from 1 to 4 p.m. in the New Madrid County Courtroom on the first floor of the courthouse. His office had been located in the courthouse basement during remodeling of the courtroom.

Haynes is also available on Friday mornings from 9 o'clock to noon at the city police station.

past grand knight of the Knights of Columbus council.

"He has been a real credit to the council, as he is known by many as 'Mr. Picnic' when it comes time for the annual Fourth of July picnic," Wilson said. "He is very instrumental in seeing that all the prizes and stands, and everything else pertaining to the picnic is in A-1 shape."

State Reps. Fred DeField of Charleston and Gary Rust of Cape Girardeau congratulated the two men during short talks after the presentations.

Before the awards were presented, Ransdell told of Oran's achievements during the past year--including the new baseball complex at the city park and the new municipal building--and announced that next year there will also be a Woman of the Year award.

weekend calls for a 40-cent increase in gasoline taxes, which would push the total tax on a gallon of gasoline to 44 cents.

After the GOP leadership meeting at the White House, Scott said Ford didn't divulge any decision on deferring his tariff increases.

"He called us in to get our advice on what he might do, not to tell us what was going to happen," Scott said.

He and House Republican Leader John Rhodes of Arizona criticized an energy plan proposed last week by the Congress' Democratic leadership, but had praise for the Ullman plan.

Scott charged that the Democratic leadership wants to "save energy on the cheap, and it can't be done that way."

"They aren't biting a bullett. — they're biting a marshmallow," Scott added.

The Ullman plan, in contrast, is "much better considered ... much better prepared," said Rhodes.

Scott agreed, calling the plan put forth by the Ways and Means Committee chairman "a respectable and expert approach to the problem ... it certainly bites more than a marshmallow."

The Ullman plan calls for gradual increases in the gasoline tax to as much as 40 cents a gallon.

The first $1-a-barrel increase in Ford's plan to raise oil import tariffs has already gone into effect. The second $1-a-barrel hike was scheduled to go into effect this month.

Congress passed a bill last month suspending the President's authority to impose the tariffs. Scott said Ford told the Republican congressmen he will veto the bill Tuesday morning. The President had promised the veto, and Tuesday midnight is the deadline.

Democrats are planning an attempt to override the veto, but Scott said he was confident the veto would be sustained.

Sixty-four per cent of the persons contacted in an NBC poll believe Congress should override the planned veto. Twenty-nine per cent thought Congress should not override the veto, and 7 per cent were unsure.

Ford's announcement that he would consider delaying the tariff came after the Democratic leadership in the House and Senate last week proposed an alternative energy conservation program.

New jobs offset rising unemployment

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Attempts to generate new jobs in Missouri apparently have partially offset soaring unemployment in the state, statistics released today by the Division of Commerce and Industrial Development showed.

Nearly 11.200 new jobs, resulting from the addtion of 103 new industries and expansion of 101 others, were generated during 1974, the figures showed. The total was down from the 1973 record of more than 14,000 new jobs.

Unemployment in the state in January, however, hit 7.7 per cent with more than 150,000 persons out of work, one of the highest jobless rates in the state's history but still below the comparable national level of 9 per cent.

"This can be attributed in part to the number of new jobs created by last year's new and expanding industries," claimed Guy Jaffe, division director.

Establishment of new plants was down 42 per cent from the year before while expansion was off 38 per cent, the figures showed. Investment however, was a record $348 million, apparently most of the increase due to rising costs.

Bakery burns in Charleston

CHARLESTON — The Charleston Bakery, 106 E. Market St., was extensively damaged by fire about 10:30 a.m. Sunday.

The customer area at the front of the shop received the heaviest damage. The fire began in that area and is believed to have started in electrical equipment.

Marvin Ruff is manager and operator of the bakery and the building is owned by Thomas Bird.

5:02 p.m. Sunday the fire department was called to extinguish two grass fires, one at Marshall and Green streets and the other at Lee and Marshall streets.

At 2:30 p.m. Saturday firemen were called to an apartment house at 103 S. Sixth St. Debbie Kellick was moving into an apartment in the building owned by Pete Bingham. A box springs caught on fire after it was inadvertantly laid on a floor furnace.

6 people file for R-1 posts

CHARLESTON — Six persons have announed their candidacy for the two positions on the R-1 Board of Educatoin to be filled inthe April 1 election, according to board secretary, Mrs. Eleanor Hequembourg.

Filing prior to Friday's 4 p.m. deadline were incumbent Norbert Rolwing, Leo Schott, Jane Banta Hopkins, Dorothy Barrett, William A. Owens and Jim French. Ellott Raffety is not seeking re-election.

The two positions to be filled are for three-year terms.

Dudley girl to compete

DUDLEY — Cindy Culbertson, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Culbertson of rural Dudley and a student at Dexter High School has been selected to compete in the 1975 Miss Missouri Teenage pageant scheduled May 30 at Stephens College in Columbia.

The winner of the state event will compete in the Miss America Teenage pageant in Atlanta, Ga.

Miss Culberson is sponsored by Dexter National Bankl.

4 candidates for C-7 posts

NEW HAMBURG — Four persons have filed for two positions to be filled on the Kelso-New Hamburg C-7 School District board of education in the April 1 school election. The filing deadline was Friday.

The candidates who filed are Charles P. Hess, Joseph F. Westrich, Roger D. Record and Melvin Schott.

Thw two incumbents, James P. Reinabel and Alfred Menz, did not file for re-election.

Both positions will be for two-year terms.

No weekend deaths reported by patrol

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—No one died on Missouri highways over the weekend, the first ime that has happened in 13 months, according to the state Highway Patrol.

The last time there wazi o Saturday and Sunday that saw no Missouri traffic deaths was Feb. 2-3, 1974, but fatality totals through midnight Sunday for this year remain above those for the same period in 1974.

Only 98 persons died through March 2, 1974, compared to 111 so far this year, but patrol Supt. Sam S. Smith said this year's total has been running about 25 per cent ahead of a year ago before the weekend.

"Because of the excellent weekend we were able to reduce the difference somewhat. We could use a couple more (weekends) like that," he said. The total now is about 13 per cent higher than last year.

"It's awfully hard to put your finger on why we have accidents," Smith added in explaining that there was no real reason that could be cited for the weekend development.

But because of the poor start this year, he said, "I think we'll be most fortunate if we have the same record this year as last year."

Traffic deaths were down more than 400 last year over 1973, primarily due to the reduced 55 mile an hour speed limit, according to officials.

tion and personnel training.

The division would conduct annual inspections of all local facilities.

The constitutional amendments, both sponsored by Sen. Jack Gant, D-Independence, would boost the allowable tax levy set by school districts without a vote of the people from $1.25 to $2 and permit such districts to sell bonds upon a 60 per cent vote instead of a two-thirds vote.

The House has on its informal schedule an increase in unemployment benefits that also boosts the maximum payment to $95 a week. The Senate has approved a raise with the new ceiling at $85 a week.

VA Officer available

NEW MADRID — Bill Haynes, Veterans Administration service officer, has announced that he is available for consultation each Friday from 1 to 4 p.m. in the New Madrid County Courtroom on the first floor of the courthouse. His office had been located in the courthouse basement during remodeling of the courtroom.

Haynes is also available on Friday mornings from 9 o'clock to noon at the city police station.

past grand knight of the Knights of Columbus council.

"He has been a real credit to the council, as he is known by many as 'Mr. Picnic' when it comes time for the annual Fourth of July picnic," Wilson said. "He is very instrumental in seeing that all the prizes and stands, and everything else pertaining to the picnic is in A-1 shape."

State Reps. Fred DeField of Charleston and Gary Rust of Cape Girardeau congratulated the two men during short talks after the presentations.

Before the awards were presented, Ransdell told of Oran's achievements during the past year--including the new baseball complex at the city park and the new municipal building--and announced that next year there will also be a Woman of the Year award.

weekend calls for a 40-cent increase in gasoline taxes, which would push the total tax on a gallon of gasoline to 44 cents.

After the GOP leadership meeting at the White House, Scott said Ford didn't divulge any decision on deferring his tariff increases.

"He called us in to get our advice on what he might do, not to tell us what was going to happen," Scott said.

He and House Republican Leader John Rhodes of Arizona criticized an energy plan proposed last week by the Congress' Democratic leadership, but had praise for the Ullman plan.

Scott charged that the Democratic leadership wants to "save energy on the cheap, and it can't be done that way."

"They aren't biting a bullett, — they're biting a marshmallow," Scott added.

The Ullman plan, in contrast, is "much better considered ... much better prepared," said Rhodes.

Scott agreed, calling the plan put forth by the Ways and Means Committee chairman "a respectable and expert approach to the problem ... it certainly bites more than a marshmallow."

The Ullman plan calls for gradual increases in the gasoline tax to as much as 40 cents a gallon.

The first $1-a-barrel increase in Ford's plan to raise oil import tariffs has already gone into effect. The second $1-a-barrel hike was scheduled to go into effect this month.

Congress passed a bill last month suspending the President's authority to impose the tariffs. Scott said Ford told the Republican congressmen he will veto the bill Tuesday morning. The President had promised the veto, and Tuesday midnight is the deadline.

Democrats are planning an attempt to override the veto, but Scott said he was confident the veto would be sustained.

Sixty-four per cent of the persons contacted in an NBC poll believe Congress should override the planned veto. Twenty-nine per cent thought Congress should not override the veto, and 7 per cent were unsure.

Ford's announcement that he would consider delaying the tariff came after the Democratic leadership in the House and Senate last week proposed an alternative energy conservation program.
